Two cars slammed together on Route 39 about 2½ miles west of Wellsville Monday night at 9:45, killing an 18-year-old Wellsville High School senior and injuring one of the drivers.

Gerald Bentz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bentz of Wellsville R. D. 1, died of a fractured neck and other injuries in the collision involving Ralph T. Samberson, 28, of Fife Rd. near Wellsville and James E. Orr, 28, of 1260 Commerce St., Wellsville.

The State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Samberson, in whose 1954 sedan Mr. Bentz was a passenger, was headed west while Orr was driving east in a 1957 coach.

Samberson, in "fair" condition today at City Hospital, suffered a fractured left leg, chest injury, possible wrist injury and abrasions of the forehead. Orr escaped injury, the patrol said.

Dr. R. C. Costello, deputy county coroner, said Mr. Bentz suffered a fractured neck, fractured pelvis and a scalp laceration.

The patrol said one of the autos was left of center, and was continuing its investigation today.

Officers said Samberson's car left the road on the north side after the crash, struck a road sign and then a concrete culvert, turning over on its top. Orr's car also went off on the north side, coming to a stop with its left front wheel and fender ripped off.

Mr. Bentz was pinned inside the car by the front seat, which was thrown forward, Dr. Costello said.

The death was the 26th traffic fatality in Columbiana County this year, compared to 27 this time in 1959.

The youthful victim was born Nov. 13, 1942, the son of Clarence L. and Anna Shuman Bentz of the old Salineville Rd.

He was also a member of the Wellsville High School marching band and belonged to the Oak Ridge United Presbyterian Church and its youth group.

He had been employed part-time at Piatt's Grocery and the Russell Dairy.

Besides his parents, he is survived by a sister, Miss Marilyn R. Bentz at home; four brothers, James E. Bentz of Wellsville R. D. and Terry K. Bentz, Jack E. Bentz and Dennis L. Bentz, all at home, and his maternal grandfather, William E. Shuman, at home.

Services will be held Thursday at 3:30 p. m. at the MacLean Funeral Home by the Rev. E. E. Bacon. Burial will be in Oak Ridge Cemetery.

Hunt Pressed For Trio

Bank Theft Loot Set At $135,000

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — FBI agents and state and local police worked today to warm up the cold trail of three hooded gunmen who made hostages of a bank teller's family while they looted the bank of $135,000.

With one store still to report on the amount it placed in the night depository over the weekend, the Boardman Plaza branch of the Mahoning County National Bank estimated the robbers got $105,000 in cash and $30,000 in checks early Monday.

Police speculated that the men who stole the money at the bank may have stopped and hidden it somewhere before returning to the home of Robert Macaulay, 43, the teller, to pick up their companion who was standing guard over the Macaulay family.

The entire operation had the earmarks of careful planning. This is the way the trio operated, according to the Macaulays' report to police:

About midnight Macaulay, his wife, Hazel and their sons, Richard, 14, and David, 8, arrived home from Cleveland where they had been visiting relatives. Their house is about a mile from the bank.

When the family entered the house, three hooded men came from a bedroom where they had been hiding and prodded Macaulay with a sawed-off shotgun.

The trio apparently had been waiting inside the house for more than four hours after gaining entrance by breaking a glass panel in the front door.

The robbers bound Macaulay and Richard, whom they repeatedly addressed as "punk." Mrs. Macaulay and the younger boy were not tied but were made to lie on a bed, where the boy fell asleep.

Before his wrists and ankles were bound, Macaulay was forced by the gunmen to give them the keys to the bank doors and the combination to the inside door of the night depository.

Using Macaulay's car, two men went to the bank while the third remained in the Macaulay home on guard. When the two returned they ripped out a telephone and drove away in the teller's car, which they abandoned about two miles to the south.

Before dawn three men were picked up at a roadblock. Police said they had walkie-talkie radios in their car and burglar tools in the trunk. All day Monday detectives questioned the men, all of whom, they said, had police records. The men denied the robbery, and the Macaulays were unable to identify them, police said.

'Nothing Suspicious' About Fire, Navy Report Says Firmly

BULLETIN

NEW YORK (AP) — A Naval Court of Inquiry is being convened immediately to investigate the disastrous fire that killed 46 persons aboard the huge aircraft carrier Constellation, the Navy announced today.

NEW YORK (AP)—Navy officials today placed at 46 the death toll in a fiery disaster aboard the giant aircraft carrier Constellation.

Police earlier had said the count might reach 56 but the Navy discounted this. The police had listed 10 workmen missing in addition to the known 46 dead.

However, Navy authorities said 10 of those who perished had not yet been identified and they apparently were being erroneously listed as missing.

The Navy said a search of the carrier's fire-blackened passageways was all but ended.

The fire, which raged out of control most of Monday and into the night, crippled the world's largest aircraft carrier afloat, and struck a serious blow at America's defense plans.

Naval authorities in Washington said they had counted on having the Constellation ready for use as an attack carrier by mid-1961. Only a ship of its general size can handle adequate numbers of the heavy jet planes the Navy uses for its striking arm.

Rear Adm. Schuyler Pyne, commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, in which the Constellation was berthed, estimated that the fire set back completion of the ship by about a year. He estimated the damage at $75 million.

Councilmen Query Chief On Burglaries

A series of burglaries and robberies that has plagued East Liverpool police for the last few weeks came up for discussion in Council's meeting Monday night.

Noting that there has been "a series of breaking and enterings," Councilman Donald Hancock asked Police Chief Americo Radeschi "what is being done to stop the burglaries and apprehend the people responsible?"

The chief said he could not reply fully in public for security reasons, but he added that: "I can assure you that each of these cases still is under investigation."

"We are doing the best we can with the manpower and the equipment available," the chief added. In reply to a question from Councilman John Melvin about personal investigation of the crimes, the chief said that there are 4 lieutenants, a captain and 21 patrolmen "in whom I have all the confidence in the world in making investigations."

"If any of them require help, I am glad to give it to them," he added.

Within recent weeks two safes have been hauled out of business places, forced open and then dumped in rural areas. In addition, two robbers broke into a St. Clair Ave. home a week ago, slapped and bound an elderly woman and stole $100. Several smaller-scale burglaries also were reported in homes and business places.

Cafeteria workers will receive $1.65 on Sundays and holidays with the 2-hour minimum, and $1.65 for the first hour on weekdays with $1.50 for each succeeding hour.

District Girds For Snowfall Of 3-5 Inches

State and county road crews were alerted today that an Eastbound storm may dump 3 to 5 inches of snow on the Tri-State District by Wednesday morning.

If it materializes, then the city is bound to have a White Christmas because subfreezing temperatures forecast through the remainder of the week will preserve the white blanket.

The stage thus was set for the official arrival of winter tomorrow and there will be appropriate temperatures with a low of 14 to 18 due tonight. Today's high will be near 25.

The mercury had gone only to 24 at noon after an overnight frigid low of 13, according to Dam 7 at Midland.

Tomorrow will continue cold but the frigid temperatures apparently will cut off the snow with only flurries expected.

The storm moving from northern Arkansas caused heavy snow warnings to be issued for both central and northern Ohio.

Judge Charges Panel

Murder Hearing Heads For Jury

LISBON — A jury of five women and six men was slated to begin deliberations today in the second degree murder trial of Frank Fish, Salem area shopworker and farmer charged with the shotgun slaying of his son-in-law, Wyman Capps.

Closing arguments were presented this morning, and Judge Raymond S. Buzzard charged the panel on the law applying to the case.

Fish, 56, was indicted for shooting Capps, an Alabama native, when Capps returned intoxicated from Salem Aug. 3 and failed to heed Fish's warning not to come into the home on S. Egypt Rd.

In the trial, which began Dec. 12, Fish has maintained he was in fear for his life and family as he stood on the porch at the home and blasted the approaching Capps, 37.

The defense, led by Atty. John Bauknecht of East Palestine, rested Monday afternoon at 1:25, after reading depositions from Alabama residents concerning Capps' reputation for being quarrelsome and violent.

Prosecutor G. William Brokaw offered no rebuttal testimony and the jury was then excused until this morning.

A verdict may be forthcoming late this afternoon.

Judge Buzzard excused the jury at 10:12 a. m. for the first recess after hearing closing arguments of Assistant Prosecutor J. Warren Bettis and Defense Atty. Alfred L. Fitch of Salem.

Atty. Bauknecht, co-counsel for the defense, was the first attorney on after recess, followed by Prosecutor Brokaw.

Seven members of the Fish family were in the courtroom this morning, including Mrs. Fish, Mrs. Capps, three other daughters and two sons.

Conviction for second degree murder could bring life imprisonment, while the penalty for manslaughter, which may be an inclusive charge, is 1 to 20 years.

$11,000 Boost Expected For General Fund

Decline In Debt Need To Hike Revenue In Real Estate Taxes

The city's general fund will receive $113,299 in real estate taxes in 1961, up about $11,000 from 1960 because of a cut in debt requirements, it was shown Monday night when Council enacted a resolution adopting the tax rates for next year approved by the County Budget Commission.

But the $11,000 boost in the general fund will not offset a decline of more than $50,000 from other sources that City Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate forecast several months ago. Bearing out predictions that the city's funds will be curtailed next year, Councilman John Melvin, finance committee chairman, told Council that "we won't have the money to work with next year that we had this year."

After the Budget Commission's estimates had been approved for certification to County Auditor Kenneth Bell, Councilman Donald Hancock, also a member of the finance committee, told Council that the general fund allocation is up about $11,000 from the current year because the amount required for debt retirement next year has been reduced.

School Bond Issue Slated

$356,000 Asked For Salineville School

SALINEVILLE — The initial move to submit a $356,000 bond issue in the May 2 primary for a new Salineville high school and remodeling of the present structure was authorized by the Southern Local Board of Education Monday night.

The board approved a resolution of necessity to be presented to the Columbiana County auditor, who will determine the maturity time and costs for retiring the proposed issue.

Proceeds would be combined with a state-approved grant of some $404,000 already given priority for Southern Local, if the matching funds can be supplied.

School officials said no site has been selected for the proposed high school. Last night's action was taken in order to comply with a deadline in submitting the proposal to the auditor.

After the auditor's report, the board is scheduled to file the issue with the Board of Elections at least 90 days before the primary.

Details of the project depend upon a survey undertaken by a Ohio

'Blips' On Radar Screen Pictured Planes' Collision

NEW YORK (AP) — Moments before two airliners collided in snow-laden skies above New York City a radar operator at La Guardia Airport warned one of the pilots: "Unidentified target at 3 o'clock and about eight miles."

Then, seconds later, he warned again: "A target about two miles off at 2 o'clock."

The pilot, Capt. David Wollman, acknowledged both times.

The radarman noted that both blips on his screen then seemed to merge and pursued a straight line a second blip fell off in "a slight right hook and disappeared."

What the operator apparently had seen on his screen—although he didn't know it at the time—was history's worst aviation disaster.

For the plane he had warned was a Trans World Airlines Constellation heading for La Guardia. The blip approaching the TWA propeller-driven craft at 3 o'clock or off his starboard wing, was a United Air Lines DC8 jet liner.

The merging of the blips—collision.

The jet, mortally wounded, crashed into a residential area in Brooklyn. The stricken TWA plane came down on Staten Island. The disaster last Friday took at least 135 lives of passengers and Brooklyn residents.

Gen. Elwood R. Quesada, Federal Aviation Agency administrator, said Monday in Washington that the jet was 11 miles from where it should have been when it collided with the TWA plane.

Quesada said he had informed President Eisenhower of this, adding that he also had told the President one of two electronic naviga-

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy said today he will urge Congress to act speedily on medical care for the aged and aid to education, housing and areas of chronic unemployment.

Kennedy also told a news conference that he wants early action on increasing the present minimum wage of $1 an hour.

The president-elect had at his side for the news conference Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson; House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, and Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, slated to succeed Johnson as Senate Democratic leader.

Kennedy announced that he has appointed Johnson chairman of the Advisory Council on Space Exploration Problems.

Johnson also will take over the chairmanship of the government's Committee on Contract Compliance—a unit set up by President Eisenhower to prevent race discrimination on work done by private contractors for the government. Vice President Richard M. Nixon now is chairman of that committee.

Kennedy, Johnson, Rayburn and Mansfield started strategy talks Monday on the new administration's legislative program and budget planning. They met newsmen today on the patio at Kennedy's Atlantic shore home to report on their discussions.

Johnson and Rayburn joined in predicting a successful session of the Democratic-ruled new Congress.

Decline In Debt Need To Hike Revenue In Real Estate Taxes

The city's general fund will receive $113,299 in real estate taxes in 1961, up about $11,000 from 1960 because of a cut in debt requirements, it was shown Monday night when Council enacted a resolution adopting the tax rates for next year approved by the County Budget Commission.

But the $11,000 boost in the general fund will not offset a decline of more than $50,000 from other sources that City Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate forecast several months ago. Bearing out predictions that the city's funds will be curtailed next year, Councilman John Melvin, finance committee chairman, told Council that "we won't have the money to work with next year that we had this year."

After the Budget Commission's estimates had been approved for certification to County Auditor Kenneth Bell, Councilman Donald Hancock, also a member of the finance committee, told Council that the general fund allocation is up about $11,000 from the current year because the amount required for debt retirement next year has been reduced.

Council Enters Salineville In CD Program

SALINEVILLE — Affiliation with the Columbiana County Civil Defense program was approved by Council at a meeting Monday night at which an ordinance providing the village's share of costs was adopted.

Council passed the measure prepared by Solicitor Warren Bettis after a model bill was turned down earlier this month as inadequate.

Under the ordinance, the village will participate in the newly-organized county program calling for 7½ cents per capita from each community with the county paying 5 cents.

In other action, Council authorized payment of a salary of $150 for Deputy Marshal Tom Wilson effective Jan. 1. Wilson had been working for $125 with an agreement that an additional $25 would be paid if funds permitted.

Pete Growall was rehired as street foreman for 1961. Growall had been appointed earlier this year following the death of Roy Beckwith.

Growall reported the need for a truckload of salt for use on icy streets, and Council authorized the purchase if a load is not provided as expected by a trucking firm.

The safety committee is to confer with school officials on the possiblity of buses loading at the rear of Central School instead of on Academy Ave. so as to provide more parking space for private autos. Mayor Kenneth Leishman said the nearby American Legion post had reported on the limited parking available.

Mayor Leishman called for an organization meeting of Council, Woodland Cemetery Trustees and the Board of Public Affairs Jan. 5. The next regular Council meeting is Jan. 9.

Following the meeting, Atty. Bettis provided refreshments and treats in his annual Christmas party for Council.

Everybody Grieves For Orville Freeman

A significant hush fell when the appointment of Gov. Orville L. Freeman of Minnesota to be secretary of agricuture in the Kennedy cabinet was announced in Washington. No one cheered.

To become secretary of agriculture in any presidential cabinet is to walk the political plank into the depths of sorrow—to disappear without trace in due time—to die politically without being mourned.

It happened to Ezra Taft Benson, an earnest, able man who gave the job everything he had, which was twice as much as most men could have offered it. Before Benson, it happened to Charles F. Brannan, Clinton P. Anderson, Calude R. Wickard and Henry A. Wallace.

All of them were baffled by agriculture in an economy geared to industrial production. None of them knew how to make farmers feel they were getting as fair a shake out of American abundance as wage earners in mills, factories, mines and the service industries.

They never had the slightest idea how to furnish assurance of stable prices to growers of food and fiber without restricting the supply. So all of them, in one way or another, tried to work out a combination of artificial shortages and price subsidies.

In no instance did they have the sympathy of consumers of food, who never resent it when workers in steel raise the price of things made of steel but always resent it when growers of food ask for a reasonable level of buying power relative to the cost of the things they must buy.

In every instance the secretaries found themselves blasted, lambasted, reviled and driven by the loud criticism of everybody who had it in for farmers and everybody among the farmers who was dissatisfied. That took in 99 per cent of the population.

In the case of Secretary Benson, one of the loudest blasters was Gov. Freeman of Minnesota, spokesman for the Democratic-Farmer-Labor party, which is strong in that part of the country. Mr. Benson points to Gov. Freeman and the National Farmers Union, also strong in Minnesota, as the gadflies who buzzed and stung him most relentlessly.

Now it's Orville Freeman who is going to be buzzed and stung. He will have no more luck than his predecessors in figuring out a farm policy, and under the circumstances it would be fatuous to wish him luck. Perhaps Secretary Benson will make the gesture, being a man overflowing with good will, but even that saintly man can be forgiven a sour grimace when he turns over the keys to his successor.

This Is The Time To Prove It

There is an auto traffic paradox that works like this:

The safest time to drive a car is under the most hazardous conditions.

Extra precautions are taken by safe drivers. Even chronically reckless drivers frequently become aware of danger and show respect for it.

The lowest accident totals may occur on so-called holiday weekends, after strident warnings have been issued about the danger of driving.

By the same token, the most dangerous time to drive a car probably is an ordinary weekend in summertime when traffic is heavy, roads are dry and no one has been hammering the theme of traffic danger.

Now it's the last two weeks of an old year—a time of danger.

This is the time to prove that auto driving is not the ever-increasing hazard that many people think it is.

Relative to billions of miles traveled, tens of millions of vehicles involved and hundreds of millions of passengers carried, the automobile is the safest transportation there is, whether judged by passenger miles traveled or passenger time spent in the vehicle.

But Christmas and New Year always give the automobile a bad name because of accidents and fatalities at this happy time of the year are tragic and poignant.

Show respect of danger. End the old year right and get squared away for the new year with a firm resolution that no one will get hurt or killed because of anything you did do or didn't do.

To The Season's Unsung Heroes

As the busy holiday season roars to a climax, a salute to the district's unsung heroes, such as:

The postman, who has to combat even more than snow, rain and sleet.

The clerk, who must see red in addition to the other Christmas colors.

The store owner, who also will see red if the cash registers don't keep ringing a merry tune.

The butcher, the baker and the candlestick-maker.

The chef, who finds people even more picky at Christmas time as they endeavor to make this year's dinner party "the best ever".

The bartender, with fancy drinks running out of his ears and mixing facilities taxed to the limit.

The grandparent, who tosses common sense out of the window in an all-out effort to make it a merry time for his grandchild.

The grandchild, who wonders what granddad is trying to prove as he runs his little legs off and hopefully waits for the time when he can get to bed for a well-deserved rest.

The plodding driver and his weary passengers, who defy distance to visit those they love.

In short, to all those who make the extra effort to keep the Christmas season one of the most sacred, the most joyous and the most bustling of all holidays.

How To Treat The Common Slump

The title of this particular article was: "What To Do About Business Recessions." This one was moderate. It did not advocate radical surgery or horse-doctor dosages.

But not all the articles that will be coming along about the recession will be moderate. Some will be so extreme that if they were to be taken seriously they would start a panic.

There is one point of view in the United States which holds that the best time to get galloping socialism into motion is an economic slump, when sales resistance to economic quackery is low.

Galloping socialists pop out of the woodwork every time there's a business recession. They are eager to spring into action. They want to change things around to suit themselves while everybody's busy with other matters.

Every one of the gallopers has another panacea—another painless cure, guaranteed to make man or beast feel better fast, with no unpleasant after-effects.

They are imbued with the philosophy that human beings and national economies should operate full time at top speed and that anything short of this is a sign of sickness, calling for emergency treatment.

They reject the philosophy that normalcy does not require an everlasting boom to justify its acceptance. They have no use for the theory that one of the most important things to do in a recession is to refrain from doing anything that will shake confidence in the long-range stability on which all economic commitments must be built.

There is a saying among those who suffer from the common cold that it will last just as long if it's treated as it will if the patient keeps his feet dry and waits for it to cure itself.

There is a feeling among those who suffer from recessions that they will last just as long if doctored by political quacks as if left alone.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

There are daily reports of wonders of electric brain! Now from Boston College comes word of a machine to take drudgery out of "reasoning." It looks like a slot machine and it has a panel upon which words "Think again" light up in case of a "tilt!"

Punch card equipment feeds mathematical problems into the machine and it makes deductions faster than the human mind. The "thinkless man" is near.

To latest desk motto "THINK" has been added the word "WHY?" "He uses his head" was once a recommendation but it may soon become a disadvantage, causing a boss to reject the job applicant with a firm "Sorry, but you could slow up the whole company operation."

We are approaching an age of emptyheadedness. Man who was quick at figures is something of a vanishing American, brushed off by gears, levers, switches, buttons and computers.

A phone which disposes of hello girl is undergoing tests in western city.

Washington has an electronic post office which handles letters without much help from human beings, punchboards are being fed into automation devices to tell your bank balance and now Boston comes up with an apparatus which reasons things out. This makes it possible for a man to get answer to a complicated mathematical problem while he personally keeps his mind on a blonde in the office across street, or tonight's date. (Hold everything! There may even be an electronic apparatus to establish acquaintance with the blonde and a device to keep dates by pushbutton.) Longfellow might put it today:

'In the world's broad field of battle
Brush away all mental strife;
Let machines take on your thinking
As you lead a brainless life
Lives of engineers remind us
We can make our lives serene
As we press a button, saying
"You take over, Brain Machine!"

THERE'S NEED for an American Society for Protection of Holy Hymns of Yuletide from confiscation and overexposure by airwave hucksters.

Famous songs of Christmas, symbols of faith which once gave spiritual glow to firesides of America, now pour over airwaves to plug salad oils, bad breath remedies, smokes, dog food, liquor, ships, shoes and sealing wax.

Corporation moguls who are churchgoers, pillars of society and ardent supporters of the sanctity of Yuletide songs in own homes don't mind tossing them into the hopper for use in sales pitch for everything from salami to structural steel.

Trouble For The Umbrella Man

Kennedy Wins Battle Over Goldberg

By Victor Riesel

Those who want to know what Jack Kennedy will be like during the infighting of the next four years, should know what happened during the 48-hour scuffle over the appointment of Arthur Goldberg as secretary of labor.

Victor Riesel

A group of influential unionists — veterans in free-for-all power politics — tried to push around the President-elect. They sent word they had helped to elect him. Therefore, they wanted "one of their own" to be made labor secretary. John Kennedy sent back work that he'll take advice but he'll take no veto.

The significance of the Goldberg appointment is Kennedy's decision to have special talent around him, not special interests, even in the labor field.

The group of unionists who were told off quietly but with that tough Kennedy stubbornness are allied in the Building and Construction Trades Council. They represent three million workers. For years they have been the real power inside labor.

FOR DECADES before the AFL-CIO merger they ran the AFL. They named the high council. They dealt with presidents of the U.S.

Few remember, but back in 1932, the presidents of the 19 construction unions petitioned Franklin D. Roosevelt to name Dan Tobin as secretary of labor.

Old Dan was teamsters president when Jim Hoffa was heaving strawberry crates. FDR didn't, but he did launch his campaigns at teamster banquets, giving Tobin global prestige and publicity.

After Kennedy was elected, the building trades claimed him as "their man." They asked one of the electrical workers leaders, Joe Keenan, to see him.

Keenan went to the pre-inaugural red brick White House in Georgetown and said his people wanted a labor man from the construction trades as secretary of labor. The skilled craft trades wanted it known that any other appointment would be interpreted as a message from Kennedy that labor was a second-class citizen.

Kennedy, in effect, said no. They were wrong and they could think what they wanted. He wanted Arthur Goldberg, not just as secretary of labor, but as a Cabinet confidant and even advisor on world affairs. Keenan did not leave exactly empty handed. He probably will be named as assistant secretary of defense.

THEN EVERYBODY waited for AFL-CIO President George Meany to return. When he did, the labor chief saw the President-elect. Kennedy told him he would name Goldberg. Meany was amenable. But in the hours before he got to JFK, he had been sought out by his own friend, Neal Hagerty, the building trades leader.

Hagerty, who had been very active politically in California, told Meany that the crafts wanted recognition by having "their man" in the Cabinet. This was a bid for real labor power because the labor secretary will be the conduit on all such matters flowing into the White House.

There have been reports that the old craft unions objected to Art Goldberg because he once was the CIO's lawyer. Not so! They told Meany they believed that the time had come for them to be again recognized as the real influence in labor — just as in the "old days."

WHEN GEORGE MEANY saw Jack Kennedy the latter knew all this. He asked his friend Meany to go back and tell the craft union chiefs that he would hold up the announcement for a day so they could reconcile themselves to it. He was going to make the appointment on the basis of professional skill and not pressure.

It would be nice however, he added, if the news would be greeted quietly and without grumbling. Goldberg had not asked for the job, nor had he sent an emissary. It would not be fair to have Goldberg come in under a divided labor movement. Meany was friendly.

He talked to Hagerty and gave him the facts of life. Later he talked to Jack Kennedy. The first skirmish with the veteran battalions of labor was over. Stonewall Kennedy had won.

In For A Shock

By Truman Twill

Maybe all of us should worry about the possibility of finding life on other planets in the universe.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has blown $96,000 of our money on a research report prepared by the Brookings Institution covering this matter.

The report says earthlings are in for a shock if other planets are inhabited, then hints strongly that the shock will be forthcoming.

This will be registered on earthlings, in all probability when they make their first landings in outer space, only to discover someone else was there first. When this happens, earthlings will go half nuts with curiosity.

They will go whole nuts if they do not prepare their minds in advance for the discovery that the other beings in the universe are smarter than earthlings.

Even here in earth's own back yard, the report says, societies have come apart at the seams when confronted by superior societies and in other instances have been changed beyond recognition by contact with stronger beings.

The time to think about it is now—before it happens. "The better we can come to understand the factors involved in responding to such crises, the better prepared we may be."

This viewpoint makes sense to me. It is what I have been doing since the first Sputnik. I probably have piddled away a couple months of time wondering about the beings who lived elsewhere in the universe.

There will be some; that cannot be denied. Earth is one of the smaller specks in our corner of the universe, which is only a fragment of the whole. It would be a preposterous waste of space to crowd all the life in the universe on one little lopsided half-dried-up sphere.

Having pondered the life that's familiar here, I am positive it must be redimentary—a half-baked version of the finished product. It simply makes no sense to me that this is the best there is. Any kid designer with a ruler and a box of crayons could bat out a better model in a weekend.

As for being over-awed if other beings turn out to be smarter, I have discounted that in advance. Of course they'll be smarter if for no other reason than it would be hard for them to be dumber. Let's say they are a sure bet to be at least as smart, which will make them seem to be smarter at first contact.

What I mean is that they will overestimate us on first contact, too, because when we bear down hard we can look pretty intelligent. It's not until we start to behave naturally that we give ourselves away by committing the stupidities that keep earth from being paradise.

For example, we'll stifle our first impulse to kill our space neighbors when we make contact with them. Chances are, we'll try to make a good impression, instead. We'll invite them to visit Disneyland.

Later, when we have sized them up, we'll plot their destruction. We'll compare their educational system with ours, rate of annual growth, gross national product and the payload of their rockets. They might take the place of the Soviet Union as the outfit to beat.

But I'm prepared. I've thought about this a long time and am prepared for the shock of discovering that what with one thing and another men haven't done too hot a job of making the most of their opportunities on earth.

Operation Panama

By Marshall Bannell

Canal Pays U. S. Taxpayer A Profit

BALBOA, C. Z.

The Panama Canal is one of the few important U.S. government operations which give the U.S. taxpayer a profit.

The Panama Canal Co., whose only stockholder is the United States government, had revenues totaling $83.43 million in the 1960 fiscal year compared with $87¼ million in 1959, according to its annual report, issued recently. The vast majority of income is from canal tolls, which average approximately $4,000 per average freighter for a transit through the 4-mile canal.

After paying out operating expenses, sums for canal inprovement projects and interest payments to the U.S. government (almost $9 million in 1959 and in 1960) on the direct investment by the government, the 1960 report shows a net revenue of $5.9 million compared with net revenue of $2.9 million in 1959.

According to the report, the net direct interest-bearing U.S. government investment in the Panama Canal in 1960 was $338½ million. In addition, the U.S. government has noninterest-bearing investments totaling almost $125 million in the canal zone.

The latter involves funds advanced, for example, by Congress for the construction of the Panama Canal bridge, now in progress, which will link northern and southern Panama with a highway over the canal.

THIS EXPENDITURE, however, was negotiated between the Republic of Panama and the U.S. State Department and has no direct connection with the operation of the Panama Canal.

According to the Panama Canal administration, the canal can look forward to "constantly increased use by ocean-going freighters, tankers and cruise ships."

In the month of October, for example, the number of vessels transiting the Panama Canal in either direction increased from 864 ships in 1959 to 929 vessels in 1960. Revenues for that month for tolls increased from $3.88 million in 1959 to $4.58 million this year.

Gov. W. A. Carter, administrator of the canal, announces a "comprehensive program to increase the capacity of the canal and replace worn out and obsolescent capital plants." His report adds that "to date, this program has been successfully financed from funds generated by operations of the Panama Canal Co."

Work is currently under way to widen portions of the canal — to increase ship capacity — at a total cost of at least $47 million. Other, similar projects, either completed or to be completed by 1962, involve separate expenditures of $45.9 million.

ACCORDING TO the latest statistics, the Panama Canal Co. employs a total of 11,451 persons, most of them U.S. citizens. Most employes live in the Panama Canal Zone and have their families with them in bungalows built by the company and rented at nominal rates.

In addition to company employes, important military and air bases are located in the Canal Zone for the protection of the canal. Their strength is classified information, although it has unofficially been estimated at "over 10,000 men."

Canal Zone officials report that recent clashes between Panamanian left-wing and nationalist elements and U.S. Canal Zone police and soldiers has caused concern in the Canal Zone. In some cases, employes have sent their families back to the United States. The U.S. operates the Panama Canal and the Canal Zone under permanent rights granted by the Republic of Panama.

SINCE THE TAKE OVER and operation of the Suez Canal by the Nasser government in the United Arab Republic, however, agitators have begun to insist that Panama should have some measure of control over the canal.

Daily Spanish language radio broadcasts are being beamed to Panama from Cairo, urging the population to seize control of the Panama Canal and pointing to Egypt's "success" in operating the Suez Canal. Similar broadcasts are heard here regularly from Red China and Moscow.

This year Panama obtained the right to fly the Panamanian flag alongside the Stars and Stripes in the Panama Canal Zone. The permission was granted by President Eisenhower through executive decree.

Most American citizens in Panama, including many top officials, privately take a dim view of this move as they feel that it is — in effect — tacit agreement by the U.S. government that Panama has sovereign rights over the Canal Zone. And they feel that it may be merely a prelude to further concessions by the United States in connection with the operation of the canal during 1961.

'cent Is On Brains

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

The 15 men President-elect John F. Kennedy has already chosen for the top and next-to-top spots in his administration are distinguished for something else besides youth.

The accent is on brains, lawyers and governors.

Unlike President Eisenhower, Kennedy did not put the emphasis on men with big business experience.

Kennedy put 10 of his 15 choices in No. 1 jobs: his Cabinet. Its average age of 47—the youngest in this century—compares with an average age of 57 for Eisenhower's first Cabinet in 1953.

While only two of Eisenhower's Cabinet were lawyers, there are six in Kennedy's.

They are J. Edward Day, postmaster general; Orville L. Freeman, secretary of agriculture; Arthur J. Goldberg, secretary of labor; Kennedy's brother, Robert, attorney general; Abraham A. Ribicoff, secretary of health, education and welfare; and Stewart L. Udall, secretary of the interior.

Add to them three lawyers among the second-rank Kennedy people: Adlai E. Stevenson, American ambassador to the United Nations; Byron White, deputy attorney general; and G. Mennen Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs.

Nine of the 15 had unusually good scholastic records, either graduating with honors, being remembered as brilliant, winning Rhodes scholarships, or making Phi Beta Kappa.

In the Cabinet they are: Day; Douglas Dillon, secretary of the Treasury; Freeman; Goldberg; Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense; Ribicoff; and Dean Rusk, secretary of state.

The unusual students in the second rank are White and Williams. McNamara, Rusk, Freeman and Williams made Phi Beta Kappa. Rusk and White were Rhodes scholars.

Six of the 15 Kennedy choices were governors. Three of them are in the Cabinet, three in the second rank. In the Cabinet: Freeman (Minnesota); Ribicoff (Connecticut); and Luther H. Hodges (North Carolina), secretary of commerce.

The ex-goyernors among the Kennedy second rankers: Stevenson (Illinois) and Chester Bowles (Connecticut), undersecretary of state. Williams is governor of Michigan.

Only four of the 10 Kennedy Cabinet members were businessmen, while five of Eisenhower's nine-man Cabinet were. The Cabinet became a 10-man affair in 1953, after Eisenhower took office, when the Department of Health, Education and Welfare was created.

These are the Kennedy Cabinet businessmen: Day, a vice president of the Prudential Insurance Co.; Dillon, a former Wall Street banker; McNamara, president of the Ford Co.; and Hodges, an important figure in the textile industry before he retired years ago to devote himself to public service, most recently as governor of North Carolina.

In the Kennedy second rank Bowles was a successful businessman. He made a fortune in advertising and, like Hodges, retired to go into public service as OPA administrator during the war, ambassador to India, governor of Connecticut and, most recently, congressman from the same state.

Public Notice

Down the ages the tax gatherer never has been particularly popular. There is probably nothing personal in this. But the traditional attitude of the taxpayer doubtless stems from the onerous nature of the tax collector' job.

Taxes, both federal and local, must be gathered regularly and promptly or government with all of its varied functions would be in danger of collapse.

Quickly the public itself would suffer and likely the man who is slow in paying taxes would be among the first to complain. Taxes, in essence, are not only public business but are really everybody's business.

Some taxing units are more strict with the delinquent taxpayer than other units. For some states a scale of graduated penalties is in effect. This system has been in force for years and has been pretty effective.

Public notices, or legal advertising, are used in the local newspaper to remind taxpayers of their impending obligations.

They reject the philosophy that normalcy does not require an everlasting boom to justify its acceptance. They have no use for the theory that one of the most important things to do in a recession is to refrain from doing anything that will shake confidence in the long-range stability on which all economic commitments must be built.

There is a saying among those who suffer from the common cold that it will last just as long if it's treated as it will if the patient keeps his feet dry and waits for it to cure itself.

There is a feeling among those who suffer from recessions that they will last just as long if doctored by political quacks as if left alone.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

There are daily reports of wonders of electric brain! Now from Boston College comes word of a machine to take drudgery out of "reasoning." It looks like a slot machine and it has a panel upon which words "Think again" light up in case of a "tilt!"

Punch card equipment feeds mathematical problems into the machine and it makes deductions faster than the human mind. The "thinkless man" is near.

To latest desk motto "THINK" has been added the word "WHY?" "He uses his head" was once a recommendation but it may soon become a disadvantage, causing a boss to reject the job applicant with a firm "Sorry, but you could slow up the whole company operation."

We are approaching an age of emptyheadedness. Man who was quick at figures is something of a vanishing American, brushed off by gears, levers, switches, buttons and computers.

A phone which disposes of hello girl is undergoing tests in western city.

Washington has an electronic post office which handles letters without much help from human beings, punchboards are being fed into automation devices to tell your bank balance and now Boston comes up with an apparatus which reasons things out. This makes it possible for a man to get answer to a complicated mathematical problem while he personally keeps his mind on a blonde in the office across street, or tonight's date. (Hold everything! There may even be an electronic apparatus to establish acquaintance with the blonde and a device to keep dates by pushbutton.) Longfellow might put it today:

'In the world's broad field of battle
Brush away all mental strife;
Let machines take on your thinking
As you lead a brainless life
Lives of engineers remind us
We can make our lives serene
As we press a button, saying
"You take over, Brain Machine!"

THERE'S NEED for an American Society for Protection of Holy Hymns of Yuletide from confiscation and overexposure by airwave hucksters.

Famous songs of Christmas, symbols of faith which once gave spiritual glow to firesides of America, now pour over airwaves to plug salad oils, bad breath remedies, smokes, dog food, liquor, ships, shoes and sealing wax.

Corporation moguls who are churchgoers, pillars of society and ardent supporters of the sanctity of Yuletide songs in own homes don't mind tossing them into the hopper for use in sales pitch for everything from salami to structural steel.

Trouble For The Umbrella Man

Kennedy Wins Battle Over Goldberg

By Victor Riesel

Those who want to know what Jack Kennedy will be like during the infighting of the next four years, should know what happened during the 48-hour scuffle over the appointment of Arthur Goldberg as secretary of labor.

Victor Riesel

A group of influential unionists — veterans in free-for-all power politics — tried to push around the President-elect. They sent word they had helped to elect him. Therefore, they wanted "one of their own" to be made labor secretary. John Kennedy sent back work that he'll take advice but he'll take no veto.

The significance of the Goldberg appointment is Kennedy's decision to have special talent around him, not special interests, even in the labor field.

The group of unionists who were told off quietly but with that tough Kennedy stubbornness are allied in the Building and Construction Trades Council. They represent three million workers. For years they have been the real power inside labor.

FOR DECADES before the AFL-CIO merger they ran the AFL. They named the high council. They dealt with presidents of the U.S.

Few remember, but back in 1932, the presidents of the 19 construction unions petitioned Franklin D. Roosevelt to name Dan Tobin as secretary of labor.

Old Dan was teamsters president when Jim Hoffa was heaving strawberry crates. FDR didn't, but he did launch his campaigns at teamster banquets, giving Tobin global prestige and publicity.

After Kennedy was elected, the building trades claimed him as "their man." They asked one of the electrical workers leaders, Joe Keenan, to see him.

Keenan went to the pre-inaugural red brick White House in Georgetown and said his people wanted a labor man from the construction trades as secretary of labor. The skilled craft trades wanted it known that any other appointment would be interpreted as a message from Kennedy that labor was a second-class citizen.

Kennedy, in effect, said no. They were wrong and they could think what they wanted. He wanted Arthur Goldberg, not just as secretary of labor, but as a Cabinet confidant and even advisor on world affairs. Keenan did not leave exactly empty handed. He probably will be named as assistant secretary of defense.

THEN EVERYBODY waited for AFL-CIO President George Meany to return. When he did, the labor chief saw the President-elect. Kennedy told him he would name Goldberg. Meany was amenable. But in the hours before he got to JFK, he had been sought out by his own friend, Neal Hagerty, the building trades leader.

Hagerty, who had been very active politically in California, told Meany that the crafts wanted recognition by having "their man" in the Cabinet. This was a bid for real labor power because the labor secretary will be the conduit on all such matters flowing into the White House.

There have been reports that the old craft unions objected to Art Goldberg because he once was the CIO's lawyer. Not so! They told Meany they believed that the time had come for them to be again recognized as the real influence in labor — just as in the "old days."

WHEN GEORGE MEANY saw Jack Kennedy the latter knew all this. He asked his friend Meany to go back and tell the craft union chiefs that he would hold up the announcement for a day so they could reconcile themselves to it. He was going to make the appointment on the basis of professional skill and not pressure.

It would be nice however, he added, if the news would be greeted quietly and without grumbling. Goldberg had not asked for the job, nor had he sent an emissary. It would not be fair to have Goldberg come in under a divided labor movement. Meany was friendly.

He talked to Hagerty and gave him the facts of life. Later he talked to Jack Kennedy. The first skirmish with the veteran battalions of labor was over. Stonewall Kennedy had won.

In For A Shock

By Truman Twill

Maybe all of us should worry about the possibility of finding life on other planets in the universe.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has blown $96,000 of our money on a research report prepared by the Brookings Institution covering this matter.

The report says earthlings are in for a shock if other planets are inhabited, then hints strongly that the shock will be forthcoming.

This will be registered on earthlings, in all probability when they make their first landings in outer space, only to discover someone else was there first. When this happens, earthlings will go half nuts with curiosity.

They will go whole nuts if they do not prepare their minds in advance for the discovery that the other beings in the universe are smarter than earthlings.

Even here in earth's own back yard, the report says, societies have come apart at the seams when confronted by superior societies and in other instances have been changed beyond recognition by contact with stronger beings.

The time to think about it is now—before it happens. "The better we can come to understand the factors involved in responding to such crises, the better prepared we may be."

This viewpoint makes sense to me. It is what I have been doing since the first Sputnik. I probably have piddled away a couple months of time wondering about the beings who lived elsewhere in the universe.

There will be some; that cannot be denied. Earth is one of the smaller specks in our corner of the universe, which is only a fragment of the whole. It would be a preposterous waste of space to crowd all the life in the universe on one little lopsided half-dried-up sphere.

Having pondered the life that's familiar here, I am positive it must be redimentary—a half-baked version of the finished product. It simply makes no sense to me that this is the best there is. Any kid designer with a ruler and a box of crayons could bat out a better model in a weekend.

As for being over-awed if other beings turn out to be smarter, I have discounted that in advance. Of course they'll be smarter if for no other reason than it would be hard for them to be dumber. Let's say they are a sure bet to be at least as smart, which will make them seem to be smarter at first contact.

What I mean is that they will overestimate us on first contact, too, because when we bear down hard we can look pretty intelligent. It's not until we start to behave naturally that we give ourselves away by committing the stupidities that keep earth from being paradise.

For example, we'll stifle our first impulse to kill our space neighbors when we make contact with them. Chances are, we'll try to make a good impression, instead. We'll invite them to visit Disneyland.

Later, when we have sized them up, we'll plot their destruction. We'll compare their educational system with ours, rate of annual growth, gross national product and the payload of their rockets. They might take the place of the Soviet Union as the outfit to beat.

But I'm prepared. I've thought about this a long time and am prepared for the shock of discovering that what with one thing and another men haven't done too hot a job of making the most of their opportunities on earth.

Operation Panama

By Marshall Bannell

BALBOA, C. Z.

The Panama Canal is one of the few important U.S. government operations which give the U.S. taxpayer a profit.

The Panama Canal Co., whose only stockholder is the United States government, had revenues totaling $83.43 million in the 1960 fiscal year compared with $87¼ million in 1959, according to its annual report, issued recently. The vast majority of income is from canal tolls, which average approximately $4,000 per average freighter for a transit through the 4-mile canal.

After paying out operating expenses, sums for canal inprovement projects and interest payments to the U.S. government (almost $9 million in 1959 and in 1960) on the direct investment by the government, the 1960 report shows a net revenue of $5.9 million compared with net revenue of $2.9 million in 1959.

According to the report, the net direct interest-bearing U.S. government investment in the Panama Canal in 1960 was $338½ million. In addition, the U.S. government has noninterest-bearing investments totaling almost $125 million in the canal zone.

The latter involves funds advanced, for example, by Congress for the construction of the Panama Canal bridge, now in progress, which will link northern and southern Panama with a highway over the canal.

THIS EXPENDITURE, however, was negotiated between the Republic of Panama and the U.S. State Department and has no direct connection with the operation of the Panama Canal.

According to the Panama Canal administration, the canal can look forward to "constantly increased use by ocean-going freighters, tankers and cruise ships."

In the month of October, for example, the number of vessels transiting the Panama Canal in either direction increased from 864 ships in 1959 to 929 vessels in 1960. Revenues for that month for tolls increased from $3.88 million in 1959 to $4.58 million this year.

Gov. W. A. Carter, administrator of the canal, announces a "comprehensive program to increase the capacity of the canal and replace worn out and obsolescent capital plants." His report adds that "to date, this program has been successfully financed from funds generated by operations of the Panama Canal Co."

Work is currently under way to widen portions of the canal — to increase ship capacity — at a total cost of at least $47 million. Other, similar projects, either completed or to be completed by 1962, involve separate expenditures of $45.9 million.

ACCORDING TO the latest statistics, the Panama Canal Co. employs a total of 11,451 persons, most of them U.S. citizens. Most employes live in the Panama Canal Zone and have their families with them in bungalows built by the company and rented at nominal rates.

In addition to company employes, important military and air bases are located in the Canal Zone for the protection of the canal. Their strength is classified information, although it has unofficially been estimated at "over 10,000 men."

Canal Zone officials report that recent clashes between Panamanian left-wing and nationalist elements and U.S. Canal Zone police and soldiers has caused concern in the Canal Zone. In some cases, employes have sent their families back to the United States. The U.S. operates the Panama Canal and the Canal Zone under permanent rights granted by the Republic of Panama.

SINCE THE TAKE OVER and operation of the Suez Canal by the Nasser government in the United Arab Republic, however, agitators have begun to insist that Panama should have some measure of control over the canal.

Daily Spanish language radio broadcasts are being beamed to Panama from Cairo, urging the population to seize control of the Panama Canal and pointing to Egypt's "success" in operating the Suez Canal. Similar broadcasts are heard here regularly from Red China and Moscow.

This year Panama obtained the right to fly the Panamanian flag alongside the Stars and Stripes in the Panama Canal Zone. The permission was granted by President Eisenhower through executive decree.

Most American citizens in Panama, including many top officials, privately take a dim view of this move as they feel that it is — in effect — tacit agreement by the U.S. government that Panama has sovereign rights over the Canal Zone. And they feel that it may be merely a prelude to further concessions by the United States in connection with the operation of the canal during 1961.

ccent Is On Brains

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

The 15 men President-elect John F. Kennedy has already chosen for the top and next-to-top spots in his administration are distinguished for something else besides youth.

The accent is on brains, lawyers and governors.

Unlike President Eisenhower, Kennedy did not put the emphasis on men with big business experience.

Kennedy put 10 of his 15 choices in No. 1 jobs: his Cabinet. Its average age of 47—the youngest in this century—compares with an average age of 57 for Eisenhower's first Cabinet in 1953.

While only two of Eisenhower's Cabinet were lawyers, there are six in Kennedy's.

They are J. Edward Day, postmaster general; Orville L. Freeman, secretary of agriculture; Arthur J. Goldberg, secretary of labor; Kennedy's brother, Robert, attorney general; Abraham A. Ribicoff, secretary of health, education and welfare; and Stewart L. Udall, secretary of the interior.

Add to them three lawyers among the second-rank Kennedy people: Adlai E. Stevenson, American ambassador to the United Nations; Byron White, deputy attorney general; and G. Mennen Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs.

Nine of the 15 had unusually good scholastic records, either graduating with honors, being remembered as brilliant, winning Rhodes scholarships, or making Phi Beta Kappa.

In the Cabinet they are: Day; Douglas Dillon, secretary of the Treasury; Freeman; Goldberg; Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense; Ribicoff; and Dean Rusk, secretary of state.

The unusual students in the second rank are White and Williams. McNamara, Rusk, Freeman and Williams made Phi Beta Kappa. Rusk and White were Rhodes scholars.

Six of the 15 Kennedy choices were governors. Three of them are in the Cabinet, three in the second rank. In the Cabinet: Freeman (Minnesota); Ribicoff (Connecticut); and Luther H. Hodges (North Carolina), secretary of commerce.

The ex-governors among the Kennedy second rankers: Stevenson (Illinois) and Chester Bowles (Connecticut), undersecretary of state. Williams is governor of Michigan.

Only four of the 10 Kennedy Cabinet members were businessmen, while five of Eisenhower's nine-man Cabinet were. The Cabinet became a 10-man affair in 1953, after Eisenhower took office, when the Department of Health, Education and Welfare was created.

These are the Kennedy Cabinet businessmen: Day, a vice president of the Prudential Insurance Co.; Dillon, a former Wall Street banker; McNamara, president of the Ford Co.; and Hodges, an important figure in the textile industry before he retired years ago to devote himself to public service, most recently as governor of North Carolina.

In the Kennedy second rank Bowles was a successful businessman. He made a fortune in advertising and, like Hodges, retired to go into public service as OPA administrator during the war, ambassador to India, governor of Connecticut and, most recently, congressman from the same state.

Public Notice

Down the ages the tax gatherer never has been particularly popular. There is probably nothing personal in this. But the traditional attitude of the taxpayer doubtless stems from the onerous nature of the tax collector' job.

Taxes, both federal and local, must be gathered regularly and promptly or government with all of its varied functions would be in danger of collapse.

Quickly the public itself would suffer and likely the man who is slow in paying taxes would be among the first to complain. Taxes, in essence, are not only public business but are really everybody's business.

Some taxing units are more strict with the delinquent taxpayer than other units. For some states a scale of graduated penalties is in effect. This system has been in force for years and has been pretty effective.

Public notices, or legal advertising, are used in the local newspaper to remind taxpayers of their impending obligations.

Council Clears Request To Cut Street Width

Council Monday night accepted a petition to cut 15 feet from the width of a section of East End street to make the stretch uniform for its entire length.

Signed by owners of abutting property, the petition requested that 15 feet be cut from the width of Martin St. between Etruria St. and Fayette Alley.

Councilman Donald Hancock, who introduced the petition, explained that the street is 30 feet wide and paved for its entire length except for the affected stretch, where it is 45 feet.

Cutting the width "won't affect the street at all" and will make it of uniform width from Pennsylvania Ave. to the Ohio River, he explained. The petition requested that the street be narrowed by vacating the west 15 feet.

Council approved Hancock's motion to publish the required legal advertisement giving official notice of Council's intent to vacate the section.

Council approved a resolution to pay three claims against the city. They include: $102 to William Jones of Lisbon St. for damage to his auto when it was involved in a collision with a city - owned truck on Lisbon St.; $74 to Charlotte Plunkett of W. Drury Ln. caused when a sewer backed up into her home, and $5 to Loetta Galloway of Dewey Ave., who alleged she tore her dress on a parking meter.

Councilman Robert Laughlin reported Mayor Bert H. Goodballet has promised to write the State Highway Department about "the unsightly mess created in West End," where homes have been razed to clear the right-of-way for a California Hollow-West End Freeway.

Private individuals who purchased the houses from the state and then razed them failed to comply with an agreement to level the foundations and leave the sites in good order when the buildings were removed, Laughlin said.

Council received and filed a proclamation from Secretary of State Ted W. Brown with official notice that East Liverpool's population was fixed at 22,306 in the 1960 census completed in April.

Safety-Service Director Lee Copenhaver reported a Belmont County trucking concern has agreed to pay $227 for damage to a traffic light at Harvey Ave. and Putnam St. which one of its vehicles struck and damaged on Dec. 9.

"It's been a tough year, but we have made some accomplishments," the director said, conveying yearend wishes from the administration. On behalf of himself and the mayor, he wished members of Council "a merry Christmas and a happy New Year."

Council President Charles N. Edwards reported he has received complaints of autos speeding through East End late at night when traffic signals are switched automatically to amber caution flashers for the main thoroughfares.

"Amber means caution, but the traffic on the main thoroughfare doesn't slow at all," he said. "A motorist approaching from a side street encounters a red blinker, which requires him to stop. But he hasn't any chance to get onto the main throughfare unless the traffic is slowed."

"The public should know that they must go through amber lights with caution," he continued. "Otherwise the lights should be turned off completely."

"No doubt the public knows the law," Hancock replied. "They just take advantage of the situation."

The meeting opened with invocation by Maj. William Hathorn of the Salvation Army. As the next regular session would fall on New Year's weekend, Council reset it for Jan. 4. A special session probably will be held about Dec. 29 to wind up the year's business.

Taft Quits Council

CINCINNATI (AP)—State Rep. Robert Taft Jr. has resigned as board chairman of the Cincinnati Community Health and Welfare Council, saying a conflict of interest looms. He said he expects to be Republican floor leader of the Ohio House in the next General Assembly and this job might bring before him matters of interest to the council.

Taft will continue a member of the board, however.

The association is making a total donation of $2,300 to charitable organizations in a five-county area including Harrison and Monroe.

The new St. John Hospital at Steubenville was presented $1,000 for a new therapy machine while $700 was donated to the Belmont County Retarded Children's Council. Donations of $50 each went to the retarded children's groups in Monroe and Harrison Counties.

The money in Columbiana County last year went to the Retarded Children's Council while in 1958 the donation was to the Cancer Fund and in 1957 it was presented to the City Hospital.

Private individuals who purchased the houses from the state and then razed them failed to comply with an agreement to level the foundations and leave the sites in good order when the buildings were removed, Laughlin said.

Council received and filed a proclamation from Secretary of State Ted W. Brown with official notice that East Liverpool's population was fixed at 22,306 in the 1960 census completed in April.

Safety-Service Director Lee Copenhaver reported a Belmont County trucking concern has agreed to pay $227 for damage to a traffic light at Harvey Ave. and Putnam St. which one of its vehicles struck and damaged on Dec. 9.

"It's been a tough year, but we have made some accomplishments," the director said, conveying yearend wishes from the administration. On behalf of himself and the mayor, he wished members of Council "a merry Christmas and a happy New Year."

Council President Charles N. Edwards reported he has received complaints of autos speeding through East End late at night when traffic signals are switched automatically to amber caution flashers for the main thoroughfares.

"Amber means caution, but the traffic on the main thoroughfare doesn't slow at all," he said. "A motorist approaching from a side street encounters a red blinker, which requires him to stop. But he hasn't any chance to get onto the main throughfare unless the traffic is slowed."

"The public should know that they must go through amber lights with caution," he continued. "Otherwise the lights should be turned off completely."

"No doubt the public knows the law," Hancock replied. "They just take advantage of the situation."

The meeting opened with invocation by Maj. William Hathorn of the Salvation Army. As the next regular session would fall on New Year's weekend, Council reset it for Jan. 4. A special session probably will be held about Dec. 29 to wind up the year's business.

Taft Quits Council

CINCINNATI (AP)—State Rep. Robert Taft Jr. has resigned as board chairman of the Cincinnati Community Health and Welfare Council, saying a conflict of interest looms. He said he expects to be Republican floor leader of the Ohio House in the next General Assembly and this job might bring before him matters of interest to the council.

Taft will continue a member of the board, however.

Unemployment Discussed

Barron's Emergency Unit Sets Up Executive Council

CHARLESTON (AP) — If West Virginia would concentrate more on making finished products out of the lumber it produces, many thousands of new jobs would be created.

And if the state would improve its schools, industry would be more willing to locate within its borders —again more work for the unemployed.

These were among ideas outlined here Monday at Gov. - elect W. W. Barron's "Emergency Non-Partisan Citizens Conference." The mission of the conference — attended by some 185 leaders representing virtually all fields — is to define West Virginia's problem areas and recommend possible solutions which could find their way into Barron's legislative program.

The group met in the Capitol for about 2½ hours and chose a 25-member executive council which set Dec. 30 for its first meeting. Like its parent body, the council is made up of men from business and management, labor, education and state government. Seven of the 25 will be selected by Barron, possibly today.

Also meeting here was the West Virginia branch of President-elect Kennedy's task force on depressed areas. That meeting was held behind closed doors, but the chairman, newspaper editor Harry G. Hoffman of Charleston, said after the eight - hour session that the group completed a number of specific recommendations "for things which we think will be very beneficial to distressed areas in general and West Virginia in particular."

At Barron's meeting, James Harless of Gilbert, a Mingo County lumber company executive, suggested that West Virginia place more emphasis on a wood products manufacturing industry. This, he said, "very quickly could put an additional 50,000 to work."

Harless illustrated by pointing out that 90 per cent of the lumber his firm produces goes outside the state for conversion to finished products. Manufacturing of his own firm's output alone, he said, would add a minimum of 500 jobs.

Robert Shattuck, an industrialist from Parkersburg, emphasized the need for improving the quality of West Virginia schools as one step toward attracting more industry — and consequently, more jobs — to the state.

Sen. Howard Carson of Fayetteville, who will preside in the new State Senate, indicated that whatever Barron's conferees come up with will get serious consideration from the 1961 Legislature.

"I am confident that any program which meets with the approval of this representative group will in all probability meet with the wholehearted approval of the Legislature," said Carson, representing the Legislature at the conference.

Barron expressed this same idea in remarks opening the meeting. He said the Legislature will give close attention to the conference's proposals "because the leaders and other key members of the Legislature are an actual definite part of this conference."

Present plans call for the executive council to report to the full conference in January before the Legislature convenes.

Buses will run on regular schedules Thursday, he said. Buildings in the system are located in Chester, Newell, Pughtown, New Cumberland and Weirton.

Stanton Local schools will end classes Wednesday. Classes will resume Jan. 3.

Christmas programs are scheduled Wednesday at 10 a. m. in the Irondale elementary school and at 2:15 p. m. at Stanton Local High in Irondale. Other schools in the system are at Hammondsville, Empire, Port Homer and Stratton.

In East Palestine, schools will dismiss Wednesday afternoon. Classes will resume Jan. 3.

Both Western Beaver County School and South Side Joint School Districts will dismiss students tomorrow.

Midland public schools will dismiss Thursday at 2:30 p. m., Supt. Ralph H. Jewell said. Presentation Parochial School will dismiss Friday at 2 p. m.

The Presentation Parochial School held its Christmas program this afternoon in the lyceum with eighth grade students presenting the story of Christmas. The eighth grade will sing carols throughout the school before it closes for the holidays, Sister Ermeline, principal, said.

Smoke Reduction Plan To Be Tried

A method of eliminating some smoke will be tried at two school buildings, the Board of Education decided Monday night after hearing a recommendation from two heating experts.

The experiment to reduce the amount of smoke will be conducted at the Pleasant Heights and Lincoln buildings as soon as weather permits the work to be started, the board agreed.

ROBERT SMITH and Robert Adams of the Consolidated Coal Co. recommended raising the smokestacks, installation of a fine screen to collect larger particles in the smoke and use of egg coal in the furnaces, Supt. Ralph W. Betts told the board.

Betts said he conferred with the two men and Graham Kearney of the Mineral Fuel & Supply Co., which has the contract to supply coal to the city system.

Betts said he was told the stacks should be raised approximately three feet. Elevating the stacks will create a better draft and thus burn off more of the gaseous smoke, the superintendent was told.

BY USING 2-to-4-inch egg coal, it will increase the burning surface in the furnace and the ¼-inch screens installed at the top of the smokestacks will eliminate some of the larger smoke particles.

Betts said the main problem will be to elevate the stacks. It may be possible to do the work during the Christmas vacation since not as much heat will be required in the buildings, he said.

The board began an investigation into smoke control several months ago after receiving a letter from a group of Pleasant Heights residents asking it to attempt to eliminate some of the smoke coming from the neighborhood school.

IF THE METHOD doesn't succeed in eliminating some of the smoke, the two engineers said the board then could try using a 50-50 mixture of coal and a processed fuel without any additional expense except the cost of raising the smokestacks.

The present furnaces could be used to burn the mixture without alterations, they reported.

The board also authorized painting of the interior of the McKinley building, accepting the low bid of $1,734 submitted by Christ Pallis.

THE WORK will include the painting of all plastered walls with one coat in the hallways and two in the classrooms.

Bids for the work were received last May, but the board delayed approval of the McKinley work because of a lack of funds. The work now will be paid from 1961 appropriations.

James Lowe asked the superintendent to prepare a report showing the amount the board has spent for painting over the last five years.

Stratton 'Rich' In Tax Revenues

CHARLES CRONIN

Stratton, a tiny village of 467 residents along the Ohio River in northern Jefferson County, is "loaded."

Tax income for the village has increased from a meager $2,000 yearly in 1955 to a whopping $80,000 in 1960 because of construction in the corporation limits of the new Ohio Edison Co. plant.

—:—

VILLAGE officials, realizing they must show need for the increased revenue, or face a reduction in tax rates, aren't wasting any time on the question of what to do with their new-found wealth.

Village Council is advertising for bids for installation of new sewer and water systems as the first improvement project. Bids will be opened Jan. 13.

With completion, eyesores of "outhouses" will vanish and residents will no longer have the fear that the river will pollute their wells in spring foods.

The village will finance the two projects in an unusual way — a loan of $250,000 from a Steubenville bank on a note basis, payable at 4 per cent interest.

—:—

THE LOAN will be repaid over a four- or five-year stretch, with "no sweat" from Village Council, which received the loan from the Union Savings Bank & Trust Co. A bond issue to finance the sewer and water systems would have cost considerably more.

Stratton is the richest village in the county, according to Jefferson County officials. Based on 50 per cent of "sound value" of 1950 building costs, the village's valuation for tax purposes is $31,262,750.

In 1954, its valuation was only $629,500. Periodic reappraisals probably will increase its valuation more in time.

THE HUGE power plant located along State Route 7, plus the Larson Clay Co., are the only two industries in the village limits.

With less than 500 residents, only two industries, and a $31 million plus valuation, the village apparently is rich enough to afford most any improvement program that Council feels necessary. But sewer and water facilities will be the first step toward progress.

Stratton's situation contrasts with East Liverpool, which has a valuation of $42 million, but a population of over 22,000 and many more industries.

The Stanton Local School District, which includes Stratton, Empire and Port Homer along the riverfront, plus Hammondsville and Irondale in Saline Township, also comes in for a share of Ohio Edison's Co.'s tax dollars.

THE NEW all-electric Edison Elementary School is being constructed in Empire, south of Stratton. Whether or not Stratton's sewer and water facilities are extended to the new school is a question for Stanton officials to decide.

The village of Empire has reported a low water level in wells with the demolition of the old New Cumberland locks and dam. Stratton residents faced the same problem when the new super-dam was started.

Those who suffered water shortages were reimbursed under a special act of Congress. Apparently, Empire residents may receive payments also as a list is being prepared of well owners with shortages. A survey is under way to determine the full extent of the water shortage.

Stratton Council will meet tonight at 7 in the Village Hall with Mayor Michael Misconish presiding.

Autoists, Pedestrians Urged To Avoid Christmas 'Jitters'

With shoppers jamming city streets and traffic more congested than normal because of the crowds, Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi appealed to motorists and pedestrians not to lose their patience as the pace becomes more hectic in the last few days before the holiday.

Some drivers and pedestrians may lose their sense of good judgment — and it can lead to trouble, the chief pointed out.

Most accidents are invited by unpreparedness, he said, explaining that pedestrians and motorists are concentrating on their own problems and accidents are the farthest thing from their minds.

The chief offered a few safety tips to follow during the holiday seasons.

1. If shopping trips can't be postponed in bad weather, make certain your car is equipped for bad weather driving — from properly-aimed headlights and good windshield wipers to tire chains ready for use.

2. Drive with special alertness in heavy traffic, watching for bundle-laden pedestrians.

3. Start early and give yourself time to shop calmly and without undue, frantic haste.

4. Do your window shopping from the sidewalk, not from behind the steering wheel of a moving car.

5. Stay sober while behind the wheel.

6. Don't double park, or block busy intersections.

"Persons carried away by the holiday spirit may be carried from a traffic accident for which they are unprepared, unless they exercise good judgment," the chief concluded.

Council To Study Move To Require Retirement At 70

Council agreed Monday night to meet as a committee of the whole to decide whether an ordinance should be enacted requiring compulsory retirement of all city employes at 70.

Although no date was set for a discussion of the new regulation, Councilman John Kelly was designated as chairman by President Charles N. Edwards, with instructions to report at the next meeting Jan. 4.

Kelly raised the question near the close of last night's session, asking Council to "consider compulsory retirement for all city Civil Service employes at 70."

"This would match the law for retirement of state employes," he said, but Fire Chief Charles Bryan, a member of the audience, disagreed with the councilman.

"Each city can make its own regulations so long as they do not conflict with the state code," Councilman Donald Hancock said. "I feel Council should study it."

Then Hancock moved for an investigation of Kelly's proposal, seconded by Councilman John Melvin. He proposed that the study be made "by the entire Council." Asked to name a chairman, Edwards designated Kelly.

Compulsory retirement at 70 would affect a half a dozen or more city employes scattered through various departments. City employes are eligible for pensions under the state-operated Public Employe Retirement Plan.

How Can I?
By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I rewhiten the blackened cracks between the ceramic tiles in my bathroom?

A. Scrub clean with a stiff brush. Mix white tile cement and water to a paste. Rub this into the soiled joints, but wipe the tile clean after putting on the paste. You can renew an entire wall in just a few minutes.

Q. How can I clean my all-aluminum luggage?

A. Usually, it can be cleaned just by wiping with a damp cloth. Hardware stores have preparations that remove stains from aluminum —and these, rather than home experimenting, are much preferred.

Q. What treatment will prevent rust on stored-away yard and garden tools?

A. Store these tools in a box of oil-soaked sand. Fill the box with clean sand, and then saturate it with some motor oil.

Board Asks Right To Set Standards For School Heads

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — The 1961 Legislature will be asked to empower the State Board of Education to set the qualifications for county school superintendents.

Present law prescribes a few qualifications and sets a superintendent's salary at a maximum of $4,000 a year and a maximum of $8,000 in local funds plus state contributions to make his earnings not more than $10,000.

But legislation proposed by the State Association of County School Boards and other groups would give local boards power to pay as much as they can for a superintendent. In addition, the qualifications of superintendents could be raised by making them subject to the state board, which already sets standards for principals.

The school boards group also proposes legislation concerning the election of persons to unexpired terms on county boards of education.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I rewhiten the blackened cracks between the ceramic tiles in my bathroom?

A. Scrub clean with a stiff brush. Mix white tile cement and water to a paste. Rub this into the soiled joints, but wipe the tile clean after putting on the paste. You can renew an entire wall in just a few minutes.

Q. How can I clean my all-aluminum luggage?

A. Usually, it can be cleaned just by wiping with a damp cloth. Hardware stores have preparations that remove stains from aluminum —and these, rather than home experimenting, are much preferred.

Q. What treatment will prevent rust on stored-away yard and garden tools?

A. Store these tools in a box of oil-soaked sand. Fill the box with clean sand, and then saturate it with some motor oil.

Board Asks Right To Set Standards For School Heads

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — The 1961 Legislature will be asked to empower the State Board of Education to set the qualifications for county school superintendents.

Present law prescribes a few qualifications and sets a superintendent's salary at a maximum of $4,000 a year and a maximum of $8,000 in local funds plus state contributions to make his earnings not more than $10,000.

But legislation proposed by the State Association of County School Boards and other groups would give local boards power to pay as much as they can for a superintendent. In addition, the qualifications of superintendents could be raised by making them subject to the state board, which already sets standards for principals.

The school boards group also proposes legislation concerning the election of persons to unexpired terms on county boards of education.

The Mixed-Up Christmas

Yuletide Can't Be Spoiled

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Once upon a Christmas Eve Santa Claus got mixed up.

He was late taking off from the North Pole. When he landed his sled by the chimney atop the first home on his route, he reached impatiently for his spectacles to see which packages belonged there.

But his spectacles were gone! "I must have dropped them," said Santa. "I'll go back and look."

Back his reindeer flew as Santa peered anxiously down into the snow. It grew later and later. Still he could see no sign of his spectacles.

"What'll I do without my specs?" Santa said, his red nose turning blue with worry. "I can't see the addresses on the packages."

He asked all his reindeer in turn if they could read, and each shook his head no and stamped his foot.

"Well, I can't wait a moment longer," said Santa. "I'll have to do the best I can."

So over the roofs of every land he flew, dropping off at each home packages he pulled from his bag by guess-work. When Santa got back to the North Pole he was so discouraged he wouldn't even drink the steaming hot toddy Mrs. Claus had prepared for him.

Morning came, and the greatest uproar mankind had ever known arose. Nobody in the whole world had gotten his own gift. Everybody had gotten somebody else's present.

Telephones everywhere jangled in complaint. The parliaments of every foreign country were called into emergency session. So was Congress. So was the United Nations.

What could be done? It would take weeks or months for the mailmen to correct the errors Santa had made in a single night. And meanwhile Christmas would be ruined.

The statesmen debated and debated. Finally at noon a small boy stood up in the gallery of the United Nations and piped up: "Why don't we just keep what Santa did bring us? As long as you get to open a package, it's still Christmas."

The diplomats hesitated a moment, then leaped to their feet and cheered. Why, of course that was the only possible answer. Everybody at heart wants something that belongs to somebody else. That's only human nature.

So around the world the word was flashed: "Everybody open everybody else's present — and keep it or trade it."

So everybody did open everybody else's present. And were they surprised!

Grandmas and old maids opened their packages and found dolls in them, and they wept with pleasure and said, "It has been a long time since anyone gave us a doll."

Little boys were delighted to find their packages contained cufflinks and grown-up ties like their daddies wore. And the fathers were pleased to see they had gotten a real electric train, something no one had sent them in their own childhood.

Little girls thrilled to find their packages held long-heeled shoes and lacy lingerie like mamas usually get.

Everybody who opened up everybody else's present found it was just what he had wanted all his life. Every heart was a bell of joy.

There never had been a happier yuletide — and all because Santa Claus got mixed up and lost his spectacles.

Moral: Nobody can really mess up Christmas.

Brief Session Held By East End Post

Twenty-five were present for a brief meeting of American Legion Post 374 Monday night in the post home in East End. James Cregar, commander, presided.

Robert Milne, Americanism chairman, said he presented a flag to the Second Christian Church Monday morning. The post membership to date is 408. The 1961 quota is 608.

Members were reminded to pay their 1961 dues by Dec. 31.

Plans were completed for the Christmas party Friday night at 7:30 for children of members. Santa Claus will be present.

Because of the holiday season, no more meetings will be held until Jan. 9. Following business, members decorated the post home for the children's party.

Shopping Center Traffic Changed

EAST PALESTINE — Change of traffic flow in the E. Taggart St. shopping center area was approved by Council Monday night.

Rebecca St. will be made a through street at the intersections with E. Taggart and Liberty Sts. It has been a stop street.

Traffic on E. Taggart and Liberty Sts. will now halt at Rebecca, according to the revised plan.

Council also took under consideration a proposal from the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. to install automatic flasher signals and gates at three city crossings, eliminating a watchman at the Market St. crossing.

The railroad made the counterproposal to a request for greater protection at the State Line Rd. crossing.

Wellsburg Squire Put On 5-Year Probation

WELLSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — Magistrate Angelo B. Ciccolella was placed on probation for five years Monday after Circuit Judge J. J. P. O'Brien was told the justice of the peace had repaid the $20,641 he was charged with embezzling.

Ciccolella had pleaded guilty Dec. 5 to charges of grand larceny and embezzlement. Shortages in his accounts were uncovered in an audit by the State Tax Commissioner's office.

He could have been sentenced to two to 10 years in prison.

The audit covered a 17-month period, ended last September. County officials had said most of the shortage was due the county school fund.

Ciccolella, a Democrat, was reelected to another term as justice in the Cross Creek District last Nov. 8 but court officials said he would be ineligible to serve.

Driver Faces Crash Charge

A 47-year-old man Monday night won the unwelcome distinction of being the first cited in East Liverpool in the Christmas season on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

DeMaree E. Burns of Sherwood Ave. was taken into custody at 6:15 after a collision on Lisbon St. 150 feet south of N. Surrey Rd. that involved his 1955 sedan and a 1957 sedan operated by Albert E. Zockell, 52, of 1913 Lisbon St., police said.

Zockell told police he was halted for traffic to clear in order to make a turn into the driveway at his home when Burns rammed into the rear of his car. Burns said Zockell halted suddenly in front of him and he was unable to stop.

The crash caused extensive damage to the rear of Zockell's car and the entire front end of the Burns auto, officers said.

Arraigned this morning before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, Burns entered no plea, but requested a continuance to obtain counsel. The judge set his hearing for Thursday morning and fixed bond at $500.

Meanwhile, John F. Mathias, 1164 Oakwood Ave., was fined $15 and costs when he pleaded guilty this morning to a charge of passing without the assured clear distance last Thursday on the downgrade of the Cannons Mills Hill on Route 30. He was cited by the State Highway Patrol.

The famous California salad topping called Green Goddess Dressing has a mayonnaise base with anchovies, green onion or chives and parsley added.

With Byrom's election, Koppers top management group will consist of Foy, chairman of the board, Byrom, president, and Walter P. Arnold, Robert R. Holmes, and George M. Walker, executive vice presidents.

Midland Post Finishes Toys

After a brief meeting Monday evening, members of Midland American Legion Post 481 began finishing the painting and repairs to toys to be delivered to needy children for Christmas.

Approximately 300 families in the Midland area will receive toys and food. The post voted to donate $20 to the Salvation Army, which is preparing food baskets for the families.

The post plans to wrap and package toys today, Wednesday and Thursday and deliver them Friday and Saturday. Trucks will deliver them accompanied by Santa.

Families receiving toys reside in Midland, Ohio Township, Smiths Ferry, Ohio View and Industry. Co-chairmen for the toy program are John Waddington and Mark Pike.

The present membership drive was discussed. Roy Lovitt, house committee chairman, was in charge of refreshments. George Huha, first vice commander, presided in the absence of William Coble, commander, who was at work.

The Legion Club will elect officers at its annual reorganization meeting Jan. 9. Donald Roach is president.

Young Re-Emphasizes He Won't Run Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio's junior senator, Democrat Stephen M. Young, says he "is more persuaded than ever before not to be a candidate for re-electon in 1964."

In a letter to constituents, the Cleveland attorney said he finds it rather frightening that "millionaire Republican Alvin Bentley spent more than $400,000" in his unsuccessful race to be U.S senator from Michigan. Young said this is symbolic of many Senate contests. Bentley could not be reached for comment.

So around the world the word was flashed: "Everybody open everybody else's present — and keep it or trade it."

So everybody did open everybody else's present. And were they surprised!

Grandmas and old maids opened their packages and found dolls in them, and they wept with pleasure and said, "It has been a long time since anyone gave us a doll."

Little boys were delighted to find their packages contained cufflinks and grown-up ties like their daddies wore. And the fathers were pleased to see they had gotten a real electric train, something no one had sent them in their own childhood.

Little girls thrilled to find their packages held long-heeled shoes and lacy lingerie like mamas usually get.

Everybody who opened up everybody else's present found it was just what he had wanted all his life. Every heart was a bell of joy.

There never had been a happier yuletide — and all because Santa Claus got mixed up and lost his spectacles.

Moral: Nobody can really mess up Christmas.

Brief Session Held By East End Post

Twenty-five were present for a brief meeting of American Legion Post 374 Monday night in the post home in East End. James Cregar, commander, presided.

Robert Milne, Americanism chairman, said he presented a flag to the Second Christian Church Monday morning. The post membership to date is 408. The 1961 quota is 608.

Members were reminded to pay their 1961 dues by Dec. 31.

Plans were completed for the Christmas party Friday night at 7:30 for children of members. Santa Claus will be present.

Because of the holiday season, no more meetings will be held until Jan. 9. Following business, members decorated the post home for the children's party.

Shopping Center Traffic Changed

EAST PALESTINE — Change of traffic flow in the E. Taggart St. shopping center area was approved by Council Monday night.

Rebecca St. will be made a through street at the intersections with E. Taggart and Liberty Sts. It has been a stop street.

Traffic on E. Taggart and Liberty Sts. will now halt at Rebecca, according to the revised plan.

Council also took under consideration a proposal from the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. to install automatic flasher signals and gates at three city crossings, eliminating a watchman at the Market St. crossing.

The railroad made the counterproposal to a request for greater protection at the State Line Rd. crossing.

Wellsburg Squire Put On 5-Year Probation

WELLSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — Magistrate Angelo B. Ciccolella was placed on probation for five years Monday after Circuit Judge J. J. P. O'Brien was told the justice of the peace had repaid the $20,641 he was charged with embezzling.

Ciccolella had pleaded guilty Dec. 5 to charges of grand larceny and embezzlement. Shortages in his accounts were uncovered in an audit by the State Tax Commissioner's office.

He could have been sentenced to two to 10 years in prison.

The audit covered a 17-month period, ended last September. County officials had said most of the shortage was due the county school fund.

Ciccolella, a Democrat, was reelected to another term as justice in the Cross Creek District last Nov. 8 but court officials said he would be ineligible to serve.

Driver Faces Crash Charge

A 47-year-old man Monday night won the unwelcome distinction of being the first cited in East Liverpool in the Christmas season on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

DeMaree E. Burns of Sherwood Ave. was taken into custody at 6:15 after a collision on Lisbon St. 150 feet south of N. Surrey Rd. that involved his 1955 sedan and a 1957 sedan operated by Albert E. Zockell, 52, of 1913 Lisbon St., police said.

Zockell told police he was halted for traffic to clear in order to make a turn into the driveway at his home when Burns rammed into the rear of his car. Burns said Zockell halted suddenly in front of him and he was unable to stop.

The crash caused extensive damage to the rear of Zockell's car and the entire front end of the Burns auto, officers said.

Arraigned this morning before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, Burns entered no plea, but requested a continuance to obtain counsel. The judge set his hearing for Thursday morning and fixed bond at $500.

Meanwhile, John F. Mathias, 1164 Oakwood Ave., was fined $15 and costs when he pleaded guilty this morning to a charge of passing without the assured clear distance last Thursday on the downgrade of the Cannons Mills Hill on Route 30. He was cited by the State Highway Patrol.

The famous California salad topping called Green Goddess Dressing has a mayonnaise base with anchovies, green onion or chives and parsley added.

Midland Post Finishes Toys

After a brief meeting Monday evening, members of Midland American Legion Post 481 began finishing the painting and repairs to toys to be delivered to needy children for Christmas.

Approximately 300 families in the Midland area will receive toys and food. The post voted to donate $20 to the Salvation Army, which is preparing food baskets for the families.

The post plans to wrap and package toys today, Wednesday and Thursday and deliver them Friday and Saturday. Trucks will deliver them accompanied by Santa.

Families receiving toys reside in Midland, Ohio Township, Smiths Ferry, Ohio View and Industry. Co-chairmen for the toy program are John Waddington and Mark Pike.

The present membership drive was discussed. Roy Lovitt, house committee chairman, was in charge of refreshments. George Huha, first vice commander, presided in the absence of William Coble, commander, who was at work.

The Legion Club will elect officers at its annual reorganization meeting Jan. 9. Donald Roach is president.

Young Re-Emphasizes He Won't Run Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio's junior senator, Democrat Stephen M. Young, says he "is more persuaded than ever before not to be a candidate for re-electon in 1964."

In a letter to constituents, the Cleveland attorney said he finds it rather frightening that "millionaire Republican Alvin Bentley spent more than $400,000" in his unsuccessful race to be U.S senator from Michigan. Young said this is symbolic of many Senate contests. Bentley could not be reached for comment.

Toledo areas during the night, and eastward to Mansfield by early morning today. As the storm moves closer to Ohio, snow will gradually spread over the state, possibly becoming mixed with rain and sleet in the extreme south.

Snow accumulations by tonight are expected to average 1-3 inches in the south, and 4-6 inches over the north and central portions.

The fast-moving storm, fanned by gusty northerly winds, dumped heavy snow across wide areas from the Rockies into the Midwest today — the last day of autumn.

The storm developed rapidly and swept through the central plains during the night. It moved into sections of Indiana and Lower Michigan and by midnight the snow belt stretched westward, covering Iowa, Nebraska, most of the Dakotas and eastern parts of Colorado, Wyoming and Montana.

Temperatures dropped and zero weather was on the way for many areas.

Toledo areas during the night, and eastward to Mansfield by early morning today. As the storm moves closer to Ohio, snow will gradually spread over the state, possibly becoming mixed with rain and sleet in the extreme south.

Snow accumulations by tonight are expected to average 1-3 inches in the south, and 4-6 inches over the north and central portions.

The fast-moving storm, fanned by gusty northerly winds, dumped heavy snow across wide areas from the Rockies into the Midwest today — the last day of autumn.

The storm developed rapidly and swept through the central plains during the night. It moved into sections of Indiana and Lower Michigan and by midnight the snow belt stretched westward, covering Iowa, Nebraska, most of the Dakotas and eastern parts of Colorado, Wyoming and Montana.

Temperatures dropped and zero weather was on the way for many areas.

Carrier

8, was scheduled for commisssioning sometime in March. Its total cost was about $250 million.

It was the second major disaster to hit Brooklyn in three days. Last Friday a United Air Lines DC8 jet and a TWA Super Constellation collided in the New York area, killing at least 135 persons.

The jet slammed into a Brooklyn residential area, killing 84 in the plane and 5 on the ground. Two more are still missing.

The Navy said firmly, however, that there was "nothing suspicious" about the carrier blaze. It started this way: A small hoisting truck sheared off a plug on a 500-gallon tank of jet fuel. The fluid flowed down a bomb elevator and into a well in which a welder was at work.

The resulting fire took a frightful human toll. In addition to the dead, at least 150 were burned or otherwise injured in the steel-jacketed furnace that was the Constellation. Forty-three were hospitalized.

All the dead were part of a 4,000-man civilian work force. A small Navy crew suffered no fatalities.

The fire, which seemed controllable for a short time, spread to different decks as the flaming fuel poured from one compartment to another and set ablaze wooden scaffolding, plywood interior work, cans of paint, and other imflammable materials.

Workmen raced down gangways slid down ropes and rope ladders, and jumped into the East River to escape the searing heat and billowing, poisonous smoke. Some drowned in the icy water, and many more died of suffocation.

"I can't describe it any other way than a living hell," said one worker after a rescue trip deep into the ship.

Another said the plates on the floor were "so damned hot you can't stand still even for a minute without it burning into the soles of your feet."

An army of firemen and civilian workers—some of whom had just escaped the blaze themselves — fought the inferno with doggedness and daring. There were dozens of stories of individual heroism and resourcefulness.

Rescuers cut through steel to reach men banging on the walls of compartments in which they were sealed. A giant crane lifted to safety a platform loaded with men. Firemen and volunteers plunged into the suffocating fumes to drag others to safety.

Heavy smoke masked the ship as the rescue workers struggled on. Through the smoke, the gray paint of the Constellation could be seen peeling from the oven heat, revealing a rusty-red undercoat.

During part of the day snow fell, muffling the furious activity in a white mantle. The announced death toll rose to 47 late Monday night but was reduced to 46 after a man believed dead turned up and reported that he had left the shipyard without signing out as he should have done.

The keel for the Constellation was laid Oct. 10, 1957. The ship—as tall as a 25-story building and almost as long as the Empire Building is high—is equipped to carry 100 planes. Instead of anti-aircraft guns, it has surface-to-air missiles for defense against attack.

The Constellation, launched in October, is the largest carrier afloat. The nuclear-powered carrier Enterprise, still under construction, will be larger when launched. The Constellation will remain, however, the largest conventionally-powered carrier in the world.

The Constellation, a member of the Forrestal Class of carriers, is a few hundred tons heavier than the largest of the other ships in that class. They are named for the late James V. Forrestal, first secretary of defense.

The Constellation was to join the Western Pacific fleet, where only one supercarrier, the Ranger is on duty.

$2,011 Expense Listed For Campaign Of Bettis

A total of $2,011 was spent in the successful campaign of Atty. J. Warren Bettis of Salineville for one of two state representative posts filled at the Nov. 8 general election, it was shown in sworn statements of expenses on file today with the County Election Board.

Bettis, a Republican who is assistant prosecuting attorney, said his expenses totaled $365. Robert M. Cole of Salineville, chairman of the Bettis-for-Representative Committee, filed a separate report showing expenditure of $1,646.

Friday at 4 p. m. is the deadline for filing the reports. All the winners have complied but some defeated candidates have not filed, the County Election Board's staff said.

3 Numbers Suspects Wait Beaver Hearing

BEAVER — A preliminary hearing will be set for three Aliquippa area men who have been arrested Friday by Beaver County Detectives on number charges, authorities reported.

Paul Joseph 40, his brother Joseph Joseph, 29, and Louis Mott, 26, were arrested Friday at the home of Paul Joseph of Hopewell Township and a quantity of number slips were found, detectives said.

After arraignment, they were released on $1,000 bonds each for an appearance at the preliminary hearing to be set.

Paul Joseph and another brother, George Joseph, served a short jail sentence a few years ago on a similar charge, police said.

Fund

The commission's figures provide for an overall total of $319,665 from real estate taxes, based on 7.9 mills. A levy of 3.6 mills inside the 10-mill limitation will provide $145,670 and a levy of 4.3 mills outside the limitation will provide $173,995.

Levies voted by the people are outside the constitutional 10-mill limit. The others are inside.

In addition to the $113,299 for the general fund, based on a levy of 2.8 mills, the other inside levies are two-tenths of a mill for bond retirement, producing $8,093, and three-tenths of a mill each for police and firemen's pensions, producing $12,139 for each.

The outside voted levies are the 1-mill firemen's levy, which raises $40,464; the 2½-mill garbage levy, which produces $101,160, and the hospital levy of eight-tenths of a mill, which brings in $32,371.

But the city's general fund income comes from many other sources, particularly a share of state sales tax collections, Municipal Court revenue, inheritance tax, intangible tax, parking meter income and sales of various licenses and permits.

In a typical year, real estate tax produces approximately 25 per cent of the overall total for the general fund.

Melvin requested that all department heads submit estimated budgets for 1961 as soon as possible after the first of the year to allow plenty of time for study by the finance committee in drafting next year's appropriation ordinance.

"We won't have the money to operate on in 1961 that we had in 1960," he commented.

Teen-Ager Hitches Diet To A Goal

A tubby teen who is dragging 50 excess pounds, no doubt hates that surplus weight with a "purple passion," as one teen termed it.

By Ida Jean Kain

Out of the blue, this girl suddenly found she had will power. The gist of her strategy was this: She hitched her diet to a goal.

"I have been fat for all my teens," she wrote me. "I finally realized that if I'm ever to have any fun, or even feel healthy, I must find a way to lose.

"I've tried diets, one right after another, for the past two years, but I've never had the will power to stay on them.

"From out of the blue, I finally found I had will power, and honesty was all-important to this discovery. I faced the fact that I had allowed 'fat' to spoil my fun during my teens, that in six months I would be 18 and considered almost a grown woman.

"I MADE UP my mind that I had been fat long enough and that, by my 18th birthday, I would be down to my right weight and have a nice figure!

"My goal is 130 pounds by my 18th birthday in March. I weighed 180 pounds when I started dieting this past fall. So far, I've already lost 20 pounds.

"I would like to thank you for the 'Teen-Age Challenge,' the exercise, and the 'Calorie Chart.' Tell your overweight teen readers that, if they will work toward a goal, they will find they have will power."

This teen's letter tells the secret back of slimming success — wanting to reduce and working toward a goal!

Form a vivid picture in your mind of the girl you want to grow into and make her your aim!

Another teen-age reducer, who triumphed over a weight problem, gave her winning plan. The gist of her strategy was to play the waiting game.

"Make a game of losing weight," she writes. "When you want a candy bar, or a certain something, tell yourself you'll wait five minutes for it. Say to yourself, 'Really, waiting five minutes won't kill me!'

"It's a challenge . . . and exciting," she promises and points out that waiting changes your mind and lessens your desire for fattening goodies.

—:—

WHILE WAITING consider this thought: If you decide to say "No" to the sweet, what you are really doing is saying "Yes" to the slim, attractive gal you want to be.

Once you know in your own mind that you can get more real satisfaction out of "besting" that sweet than you can by gobbling it down, you are on the way to a slimmer figure.

Experts Study Capsule After Rocket Ride

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Scientists and technicians today begin a careful study of a U.S. man-in-space capsule to determine how well it survived a 16-minute, 4,000-mile-an-hour rocket ride.

If examination shows the one-ton spacecraft came through Monday's jarring trip as planned, this nation will have taken a big step toward launching a man on a short space ride, possibly within four months.

The aircraft carrier Valley Forge was to transport the bell-shaped Project Mercury capsule to a point several hundred yards off Cape Canaveral today, and a helicopter was to carry it the rest of the way to the cape.

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration were to give the capsule a thorough going over here. Then it will be sent to McDonnell Aircraft Corp. in St. Louis for additional study. McDonnell made the capsule.

The space chamber was boosted aloft from this test center by an 83-foot Redstone missile. It zoomed to an altitude of 135 miles and landed on target in the Atlantic Ocean 235 miles southeast of here.

The capsule, its descent eased by a giant parachute, hit only eight miles from the Valley Forge. Thirty-one minutes after lift-off a helicopter hooked it and in another 17 minutes set it on the deck of the big carrier.

Initial report from the carrier was the capsule apparently was in excellent condition.

Toys Should Have Lasting Value

In planning for purchase of toys and other Christmas gifts for the children you might wish to consider some of the following:

Dr. Garry Meyers

1. Agree on the amount you parents will spend, and resolve to stick pretty close to this budget. 2. Aim to purchase a few sturdy and useful things rather than many frail ones of little lasting value. How long will the toy last? For how many months or years may the child enjoy it? How many uses can he put it to? Will the child be able to operate it himself? Is it suited to his interest and age?

—:—

HOW MUCH creative fun may he have with it? Will some of his toys be well-suited to share with playmates? How safe is the toy?

Parents are tempted, beginning with the youngest child to buy many frail toys which perish quickly. They think more of the excitement to the youngster on seeing the toy as he unwraps it than of how long it will last and appeal to him.

They like to overwhelm him, especially the youngster under five or six, with a huge assortment of glamorous playthings, and the more they think he will be excited on Christmas morning the happier these parents are as they make the purchases.

Then, as the child grows older, they can't see how to reduce the number of different items.

Glamour, paint and novelty often rank too high in the parents' selection. The more like a robot a toy is, or the more it resembles things grown-ups use, the more they are inclined to choose it — an almost life-sized doll, a huge miniature of a truck or fire engine.

Yet the use of such toys is likely to be in reverse ratio to their size.

WISE ARE parents who emphasize construction toys, tools and materials, especially for the child over five (and for younger children who will have some guidance)—paints, construction paper, clay, hammer, saw, vise.

These parents build up tools suited to the child's age and ability, adding to them year after year.

They should be sturdy, useful tools. Cheap sets of frail, dull tools are out.

Science sets for creative fun, including chemistry sets, can prove very useful playthings. But given to children too young they can prove hazardous.

Intelligent parents have an opportunity to choose playthings with a purpose for their children.

Don't overlook books and children's magazines from which to read to the child from two to five or six and for the older child to read.

My bulletins, "Letting Baby and Tot Learn" and "Stimulate Your Child"s Imagination", may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Area's Unemployment Rises, But 1958 Picture Was Worse

Unemployment in the East Liverpool area appears to be on the rise, although it is not as severe as in 1958, the Ohio State Employment Service office on Washington St. said today.

Harry L. Dinsmore, manager, said statistics at the local office show more new and continuing claims on file this month than there were in December 1959, but not as many as two years ago.

The total on hand this month is estimated at 2,665, Dinsmore said, including 376 new claims.

A year ago, the total number of claims on file was 2,585, including 410 by newly-unemployed people. Of the total, 179 resulted from the extended unemployment benefits program. The extended program no longer is in effect.

In December 1958, the office recorded 3,053 new and continued claims, including 568 new claims. A total of 615 of the claims came from the extended program, Dinsmore pointed out.

Ohio's unemployment picture is relected in the total amount of unemployment benefit checks cleared by State Treasurer Joseph T. Ferguson.

Ferguson said his office cleared $19,390,080 in unemployment checks in November, an increase of nearly 93 per cent over the $10,054,232 cleared in November 1959.

During the first five months of the present fiscal year, there has been an increase of 156 per cent in the total dollar amount of the benefit checks, Ferguson said.

The office has cleared $85,006,246 in unemployment checks since July 1, an increase of $51,833,794 over the amount cleared during the same period a year ago, Ferguson said.

One of the reasons for the increase, he pointed out, was a hike in unemployment benefits which went into effect Oct. 16, 1959.

Newsmen Warned On Involvement With Candidates

CLEVELAND (AP)—A warning against emotional involvement by newspapermen in covering political candidates and parties was sounded Monday night by Don Whitehead, winner of two Pulitzer prizes.

Speaking at a dinner meeting of the Cleveland professional chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, journalistic society, Whitehead said reporters who become members of a "cheering section" should quit the profession.

"It is a dangerous thing that has been developing," the author and former Associated Press reporter said of newspapermen who become emotionally involved in political campaigns and make it publicly evident that they are.

He said a newspaperman in taking sides for or against "is violating his reason for being."

A reporter doesn't have to be a political eunuch but should hold himself aloof—be an observer, not a participant, he added.

Armco Will Absorb Two Of Subsidiaries

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Armco Steel Corp. has decided to absorb two subsidiaries—National Supply Co. and Union Wire Rope Corp.—effective Dec. 31. Logan T. Johnston, Armco president, said Monday plans are to operate the two as separate divisions of Armco.

National Supply has had headquarters in Pittsburgh. It makes and distributes oil field machinery. Union Wire Rope, with headquarters in Kansas City, Mo., markets wire and wire products through warehouses and through the oil field stores of National Supply.

There are four compartments in a cow's stomach.

State Files Offers To Acquire Land For New Highway

As a prelude to condemnation proceedings after negotiations failed to produce agreement on price, the State Highway Department Monday filed offers totaling $26,626 in the clerk of courts office at Lisbon for 7 tracts of ground it said are needed for the right-of-way for the California Hollow-West End Freeway.

The largest offer, $10,000, was made to Mrs. Byrdie Dallas and others, 436 W. 4th St., for about a third of an acre. The state offered to pay $3,050 for the ground and $6,950 for a structure which occupies it.

The state made an offer of $9,000 to Sam Caplan for thirty-nine-hundredths of an acre at W. 8th and Jefferson Sts., site of a scrap metal business. It offered $1,850 for the land, $1,000 for a building and $6,150 for damage to the residue.

Lawrence E. Moore, 507 John St., was offered $5,201 for another parcel — $400 for land, $2,910 for a building and $1,891 for damages.

For four parcels totaling 1.18 acres, the Stover-Leslie Flying Service, Inc., was offered $2,425, including $1,825 for the real estate and $600 for damage to the residue. The flying service owns ground in the vicinity of the old stone quarry in California Hollow.

The owners have 15 days in which to accept the offers or file appeals.

Landslides In Italy Claim 4 More Victims

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Landslides took four more victims in northern Italy Monday, bringing the death toll from bad weather to 16 in the past three days.

Twelve persons were killed Sunday by landslides in the foothills of the Italian Alps.

Persistent rains were blamed for the landslides and for several scattered floods in northern Italy.

Ohio Electoral College Gives Votes To Losing GOP Ticket

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — For the second time since the turn of the century, Ohio's electoral college gave its 25 votes to a losing cause—the Republican presidential ticket.

The college held its quadrennial meeting Monday, and cast 25 unanimous votes for Richard M. Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge, the presidential and vice presidential candidates who won Ohio but lost the nation to Democrats John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

Before the voting was completed, electors rangled over a resolution that would require them to vote for the nominees of their parties. At present they are only morally, not legally, bound to do so.

After various amendments to the resoluiton were offered, including one to abolish the electoral college, all proposals were withdrawn and the college voted to strike the resolutions proceedings from the record.

The actual vote for Nixon and Lodge at the Ohio college was by signed ballot. The results go to Washington where they will be tabulated at a joint session of Congress Jan. 6 along with those of the other 49 states to make the presidential election official.

Only one other time in this century—1944—has the Ohio college voted for the losing ticket. That time Ohio backed former U. S. Sen. John W. Bricker, then Buckeye governor, who was a candidate for vice president of the Republican ticket with former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. Franklin Delano Roosevelt and running-mate Harry S. Truman carried the nation that time.

Trial Set March 6

CLEVELAND (AP) — Judge Girard E. Kalbfleisch has set March 6 for trial in U.S. District Court of charges that William Ginegan, executive secretary of the Cleveland AFL-CIO Federation, and the May Co. department store violated the Taft-Hartley Act. An indictment returned earlier this month charges Finegan received $12,207 in the last 12 years from May Co. although the law prohibits employer payments to union representatives of employes.

Area's Unemployment Rises, But 1958 Picture Was Worse

Unemployment in the East Liverpool area appears to be on the rise, although it is not as severe as in 1958, the Ohio State Employment Service office on Washington St. said today.

Harry L. Dinsmore, manager, said statistics at the local office show more new and continuing claims on file this month than there were in December 1959, but not as many as two years ago.

The total on hand this month is estimated at 2,665, Dinsmore said, including 376 new claims.

A year ago, the total number of claims on file was 2,585, including 410 by newly-unemployed people. Of the total, 179 resulted from the extended unemployment benefits program. The extended program no longer is in effect.

In December 1958, the office recorded 3,053 new and continued claims, including 568 new claims. A total of 615 of the claims came from the extended program, Dinsmore pointed out.

Ohio's unemployment picture is relected in the total amount of unemployment benefit checks cleared by State Treasurer Joseph T. Ferguson.

Ferguson said his office cleared $19,390,080 in unemployment checks in November, an increase of nearly 93 per cent over the $10,054,232 cleared in November 1959.

During the first five months of the present fiscal year, there has been an increase of 156 per cent in the total dollar amount of the benefit checks, Ferguson said.

The office has cleared $85,006,246 in unemployment checks since July 1, an increase of $51,833,794 over the amount cleared during the same period a year ago, Ferguson said.

One of the reasons for the increase, he pointed out, was a hike in unemployment benefits which went into effect Oct. 16, 1959.

State Files Offers To Acquire Land For New Highway

As a prelude to condemnation proceedings after negotiations failed to produce agreement on price, the State Highway Department Monday filed offers totaling $26,626 in the clerk of courts office at Lisbon for 7 tracts of ground it said are needed for the right-of-way for the California Hollow-West End Freeway.

The largest offer, $10,000, was made to Mrs. Byrdie Dallas and others, 436 W. 4th St., for about a third of an acre. The state offered to pay $3,050 for the ground and $6,850 for a structure which occupies it.

The state made an offer of $9,000 to Sam Caplan for thirty-nine-hundredths of an acre at W. 8th and Jefferson Sts., site of a scrap metal business. It offered $1,850 for the land, $1,000 for a building and $6,150 for damage to the residue.

Lawrence E. Moore, 507 John St., was offered $5,201 for another parcel — $400 for land, $2,910 for a building and $1,891 for damages.

For four parcels totaling 1.18 acres, the Stover-Leslie Flying Service, Inc., was offered $2,425, including $1,825 for the real estate and $600 for damage to the residue. The flying service owns ground in the vicinity of the old stone quarry in California Hollow.

The owners have 15 days in which to accept the offers or file appeals.

Landslides In Italy Claim 4 More Victims

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Landslides took four more victims in northern Italy Monday, bringing the death toll from bad weather to 16 in the past three days.

Twelve persons were killed Sunday by landslides in the foothills of the Italian Alps.

Persistent rains were blamed for the landslides and for several scattered floods in northern Italy.

Ohio Electoral College Gives Votes To Losing GOP Ticket

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — For the second time since the turn of the century, Ohio's electoral college gave its 25 votes to a losing cause—the Republican presidential ticket.

The college held its quadrennial meeting Monday, and cast 25 unanimous votes for Richard M. Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge, the presidential and vice presidential candidates who won Ohio but lost the nation to Democrats John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

Before the voting was completed, electors rangled over a resolution that would require them to vote for the nominees of their parties. At present they are only morally, not legally, bound to do so.

After various amendments to the resoluiton were offered, including one to abolish the electoral college, all proposals were withdrawn and the college voted to strike the resolutions proceedings from the record.

The actual vote for Nixon and Lodge at the Ohio college was by signed ballot. The results go to Washington where they will be tabulated at a joint session of Congress Jan. 6 along with those of the other 49 states to make the presidential election official.

Only one other time in this century—1944—has the Ohio college voted for the losing ticket. That time Ohio backed former U. S. Sen. John W. Bricker, then Buckeye governor, who was a candidate for vice president of the Republican ticket with former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. Franklin Delano Roosevelt and running-mate Harry S. Truman carried the nation that time.

Trial Set March 6

CLEVELAND (AP) — Judge Girard E. Kalbfleisch has set March 6 for trial in U.S. District Court of charges that William Ginegan, executive secretary of the Cleveland AFL-CIO Federation, and the May Co. department store violated the Taft-Hartley Act. An indictment returned earlier this month charges Finegan received $12,207 in the last 12 years from May Co. although the law prohibits employer payments to union representatives of employes.

Mayor Receives Card From City's Namesake

Annual Christmas greetings are being exchanged by officials in Liverpool, England, and Mayor Bert H. Goodballet.

The mayor Saturday received the greeting card carrying a picture of a winter scene in Sefton Park, Liverpool, showing a statue Peter Pan.

The card extended greetings from the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress of the city's namesake in England. In parentheses, it identified the officials as Alderman J. Leslie Hughes and Mrs. O'Neill.

Mayor Goodballet's card extending best wishes for Christmas and the New Year is en route to the British seaport.

No In-Law Jokes For Lawford

Not the least gratifying report of the day is the news that actor Peter Lawford, driven by a tender conscience, has decreed that there will be absolutely no "brother - in-law of the president" jokes in his coming television appearances.

Marie Torre

No brother-in - law jokes, no mention of the Kennedy's, nothing! Good news, indeed, particularly if you remember how Lawford was permitted, in pre-election days, to ballyhoo the Kennedy name in a medium fraught with "equal time" worries, causing some observers to remark at the time, "How does he get away with it?"

Lawford got away with it because in every instance, he said, the Kennedy lines were written in for him by show management eager to capitalize on the name of the then-presidential candidate. Now that the candidate is the next President of the United States, however, Lawford is putting his Oxfords down!

-:-

"I TAPED a 'Garry Moore Show' that'll be shown next Tuesday," he said, "and there's no reference to Kennedy or the presidency in that. I'm also scheduled to appear on a Jack Benny show in February, and while I don't imagine Benny would resort to a sketch about my relationship to the president-elect, I would certainly veto any such thing."

It's interesting to note that Kennedy's election has had, according to Lawford, absolutely no effect on his show business career.

"Nobody's knocking my door down, if that's what you mean," he said. "There's the usual amount of interest in my profession services—no more, no less. If anything's been affected by the election of Kennedy, it's me.

"It's an awesome kind of feeling when I realize that the next president of the United States is my brother-in-law. Sometimes I stop dead in my tracks and say, 'Can it be?' or 'Gee, I know him, he's related to me!' "

IT IS IN THIS spirit of reverential awe that Lawford and some of his Hollywood friends are preparing the mammoth pre-inaugural show to clean up the $2 million Democratic campaign deficit on Jan. 19, in the National Armory in Washington.

"The Democrats spent $9 million on the campaign," he said, "and are $2 million in debt. This show will bail them out. We'll net more than $1.9 million on the basis of tickets already sold. It'll be the first time a man has gone into the White House completely out of debt after a campaign."

There'll be, of course, no shortage of names in the show. Besides members of The Clan (Lawford, Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Sammy Davis Jr., Joey Bishop, Tony Curtis and Janet Leigh), the roster will include Mahalia Jackson, Red Skelton (if he's recovered from the recent operation), Ella Fitzgerald, Judy Garland, Milton Berle, Van Cliburn, Henry Fonda, Eileen Farrell and Nat King Cole.

"YES, Jack Kennedy will be in the audience that night," said Lawford, who says he's overwhelmed by the willingness of stars to appear at the benefit show.

"We just call them and they say, 'What time do you want me?' And mind you, most of these people have been working in behalf of Kennedy since before the Democratic convention. Worked hard! And loved it! Sometimes, when some of us get together, we say it's going to be kind of dull to concentrate full time on our jobs again."

But even at the inaugural ball Lawford will not have realized all the joys of being the president's brother-in-law. He's never, he says, been inside the White House. We expect he'll get an invitation.

JAMES STEWART has consented to narrate NBC's "Tribute to a Patriot," the full-hour special examining the life and career of President Eisenhower Jan. 10. . . .

Gian Carl Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors" will be given its 11th Christmas Day airing this year. . . .

This Is Show Business: Invitations to the wedding reception for Jimmy Durante and Margie Little were extended on the phone by the William Morris Agency, which represents Durante. . . .

Ron Ely has been signed by "The Aquanauts" as replacement for Keith Larsen, who requested and was granted his release from the series, upon his physician's advice.

Girl, 8, Gets Mixed Up About Santa Claus

CINCINNATI (AP)—An 8-year-old girl got a little mixed up about Santa Claus Monday night, police said, because she couldn't find him.

The youngster ran away from home to find the white-whiskered gentleman and confide her wants but somehow couldn't find him in wandering through crowded downtown stores.

Officers said the discouraged girl finally went into a big drug-store to fill the gift list herself. She picked up a nickel candy bar, a 10-cent paint set and a 39-cent makeup kit.

Employes called police who took the child to her West End home.

"Other kids get things for Christmas and won't give any to me," she cried. "I tried to find Santa but I couldn't."

There are 48 muscles in the human arm.

No In-Law Jokes For Lawford

Not the least gratifying report of the day is the news that actor Peter Lawford, driven by a tender conscience, has decreed that there will be absolutely no "brother - in-law of the president" jokes in his coming television appearances.

Marie Torre

No brother-in - law jokes, no mention of the Kennedy's, nothing! Good news, indeed, particularly if you remember how Lawford was permitted, in pre-election days, to ballyhoo the Kennedy name in a medium fraught with "equal time" worries, causing some observers to remark at the time, "How does he get away with it?"

Lawford got away with it because in every instance, he said, the Kennedy lines were written in for him by show management eager to capitalize on the name of the then-presidential candidate. Now that the candidate is the next President of the United States, however, Lawford is putting his Oxfords down!

-:-

"I TAPED a 'Garry Moore Show' that'll be shown next Tuesday," he said, "and there's no reference to Kennedy or the presidency in that. I'm also scheduled to appear on a Jack Benny show in February, and while I don't imagine Benny would resort to a sketch about my relationship to the president-elect, I would certainly veto any such thing."

It's interesting to note that Kennedy's election has had, according to Lawford, absolutely no effect on his show business career.

"Nobody's knocking my door down, if that's what you mean," he said. "There's the usual amount of interest in my profession services—no more, no less. If anything's been affected by the election of Kennedy, it's me.

"It's an awesome kind of feeling when I realize that the next president of the United States is my brother-in-law. Sometimes I stop dead in my tracks and say, 'Can it be?' or 'Gee, I know him, he's related to me!' "

IT IS IN THIS spirit of reverential awe that Lawford and some of his Hollywood friends are preparing the mammoth pre-inaugural show to clean up the $2 million Democratic campaign deficit on Jan. 19, in the National Armory in Washington.

"The Democrats spent $9 million on the campaign," he said, "and are $2 million in debt. This show will bail them out. We'll net more than $1.9 million on the basis of tickets already sold. It'll be the first time a man has gone into the White House completely out of debt after a campaign."

There'll be, of course, no shortage of names in the show. Besides members of The Clan (Lawford, Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Sammy Davis Jr., Joey Bishop, Tony Curtis and Janet Leigh), the roster will include Mahalia Jackson, Red Skelton (if he's recovered from the recent operation), Ella Fitzgerald, Judy Garland, Milton Berle, Van Cliburn, Henry Fonda, Eileen Farrell and Nat King Cole.

"YES, Jack Kennedy will be in the audience that night," said Lawford, who says he's overwhelmed by the willingness of stars to appear at the benefit show.

"We just call them and they say, 'What time do you want me?' And mind you, most of these people have been working in behalf of Kennedy since before the Democratic convention. Worked hard! And loved it! Sometimes, when some of us get together, we say it's going to be kind of dull to concentrate full time on our jobs again."

But even at the inaugural ball Lawford will not have realized all the joys of being the president's brother-in-law. He's never, he says, been inside the White House. We expect he'll get an invitation.

Girl, 8, Gets Mixed Up About Santa Claus

CINCINNATI (AP)—An 8-year-old girl got a little mixed up about Santa Claus Monday night, police said, because she couldn't find him.

The youngster ran away from home to find the white-whiskered gentleman and confide her wants but somehow couldn't find him in wandering through crowded downtown stores.

Officers said the discouraged girl finally went into a big drugstore to fill the gift list herself. She picked up a nickel candy bar, a 10-cent paint set and a 39-cent makeup kit.

Employes called police who took the child to her West End home.

"Other kids get things for Christmas and won't give any to me," she cried. "I tried to find Santa but I couldn't."

Michael has escaped the clutches of the Monster of the Deep, who claims to own the black pearl, and has located the trunk in which the Monster hurled Costenbricker into the sea. With the aid of sharp-toothed copy fish, the boy rescues the old man from the trunk.

CHAPTER 14

When the chest flew open water burst in and Costenbricker, crouching inside and still clutching his parasol, was submerged.

He waved his parasol stick and began to shout. This was a mistake becase when he opened his mouth water rushed in there, too, and very nearly finished him off then and there.

Michael dragged the sputtering fellow out of the chest and, shooting past the astonished copy fish, carried him to the surface. Costenbricker fastened his arms around Michael's back to keep afloat and shouted furiously, "I heard the Monster! It's not true! The black pearl belongs to me and nothing he can do will stop me from having it!"

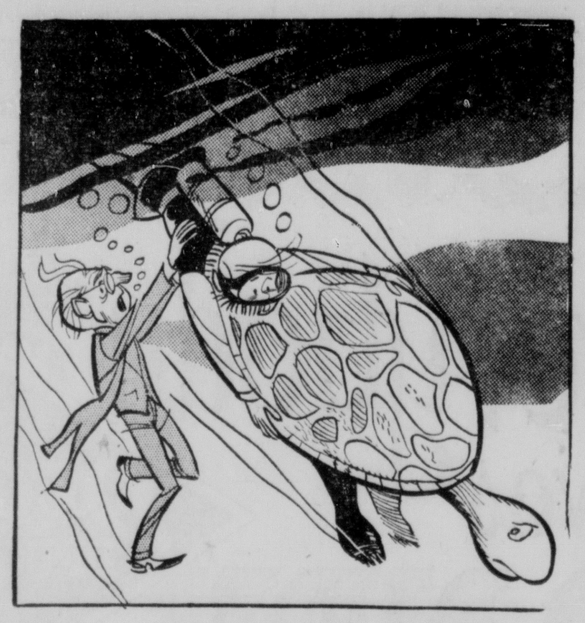
Poor Michael! He could hardly keep afloat. The more he struggled, the more he went under and each time he went under Costenbricker climbed higher on his back until finally he was straddling Michael's neck.

Michael did not know where to turn. If he went under, Costenbricker would drown. If he returned to the cliff island, the Monster would be waiting for them. He could not possibly swim to another island with Costenbricker on his back.

MEANWHILE, Costenbricker sat on his shoulders and waved his parasol stick and talked steadily. "I wish Santa Claus could know the good new! The black pearl lie right beneath us and it won't be long before I'll have it and be young again. Then I will remember the magic words that will waken the elves and reindeer!"

Michael, about to sink again, saw a giant sea tortoise swimming lazily by. He reached out like a drowning man and clasped both hands around the tortoise's huge shell. The amazed creature gave one horrified look over its shoulder and took off like a rocket across the sea.

"Hey!" screamed Costenbricker.



The tortoise plunged under water with Michael clinging to its back.

"Where are you going? You're swimming too fast, my boy! We're leaving the wreck behind!"

At this moment, the panic-stricken tortoise tipped over and plunged under the water with Michael still clinging to its back and Costenbricker still clinging to Michael's neck.

Before anyone had time to breathe or need to breathe, he dragged his two passengers into a cave under an island. Air reached the cave through a funnel that led from the island above and a vague blue light was reflected from the ocean outside.

MICHAEL looked around in astonishment. The cave was filled with turtles. They lay, shell to shell, on the ledges lining the cave, like little stone houses stacked on the sides of a hill. They moved with slow deliberation, their heads swiveling back and forth on their long necks as they stared curiously at the strangers.

"Where in the world are we?" demanded Costenbricker as he hopped up and down on one foot trying to shake the water from his ears.

"It looks like a Turtle City," said Michael. "It must be that every turtle in the sea lives here."

Costenbricker looked with distate at the lazy tortoises. "I'd like to see more activity," he said. "But never mind, I'll stay here while you go back to the wreck. Now remember, the pearl is in a trunk in the captain's cabin. You can't miss it. Don't let anything stop you."

Michael thought of the Monster who had sworn to stop him if it took all of his three lives. He longed to stay safe in the Turtle City. Then he thought of Santa Claus and all that depended on his finding the pearl and he knew he must go.

He tightened his face mask and said goodbye to Costenbricker. Then he crawled out of the cave and set out again for the ARADOON.

Transformed In New Orleans

Former Auto Plant Now Segregated Private School

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — At 8:45 each morning, about 250 children line up to go to school in an old garage.

From all oustide appearances, that is. Inside the concrete block and corrugated iron building — once an automobile engine rebuilding plant — the eight new classrooms of the St. Bernard Private School shine spotlesly.

Probably none of the children realize it, but they troop into something of an educational marvel.

Parents—determined their children would not attend integrated schools — transformed the huge hall in less than one month.

Banks of fluorescent lamps flooded the classrooms, each containing 35 desks in prim rows.

An old-fashioned school bell called the children to attention. Supt. Joseph Davies of St. Bernard Parish schools displayed the classrooms eagerly.

"It's far from being a barn, isn't it?" he asked Associated Press newsmen.

Armand Duvio, a plumber by trade and a segregationist by choice, smiled broadly, his hands rammed deeper in his pockets. It was Duvio who fathered the school when William Frantz and McDonogh No. 19 were integrated Nov.14 under federal court order.

"This wasn't any job by jackleg carpenters, electricians or do-it-yourself painters," Davies said. "These were professional men, as good as any we would have hired had the job been on a contract basis."

Workmen on their own time—men whose children would have been forced to attend Frantz or McDonogh—did the work. The job is professional, no doubt about that.

Retired teachers, or those who have teaching certificates and never taught, instruct the children. The supplies come from the state. Most of the food in the cafeteria is donated.

But this is only the beginning. Duvio hopes to have a cooperative school for 2,000 children readied by next September. It will be free, no tuition, no costs.

Jan. 16 Hearing Set In Trumbull Election Dispute

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—A hearing is scheduled tentatively for Jan. 16 on a suit by James J. Baldine to invalidate the 2,300 absentee ballots cast in Trumbull County at the Nov. 8 election.

Baldine, a Hubbard Democrat, lost to Dr. W. A. James, a Republican, by 29 votes in a recount of the race for Trumbull County Commissioner. James held an edge of about 700, or nearly 2-1, in the absentee ballot count.

The recount, which cost Baldine half of $2,390 he had posted, resulted in James picking up six votes over his total in the unofficial count.

James already has been issued a certificate of election and sworn in for another term as commissioner.

Baldine asked that he be declared the winner on grounds that the absentee ballots should be disqualified for 32 reasons. Among the reasons he listed were that absentee ballots were issued without due request from electors; that errors were made in tabulation, that ballots were improperly filled out, and that some were cast by persons who had moved out of the county permanently.

$150,000 Fire Loss

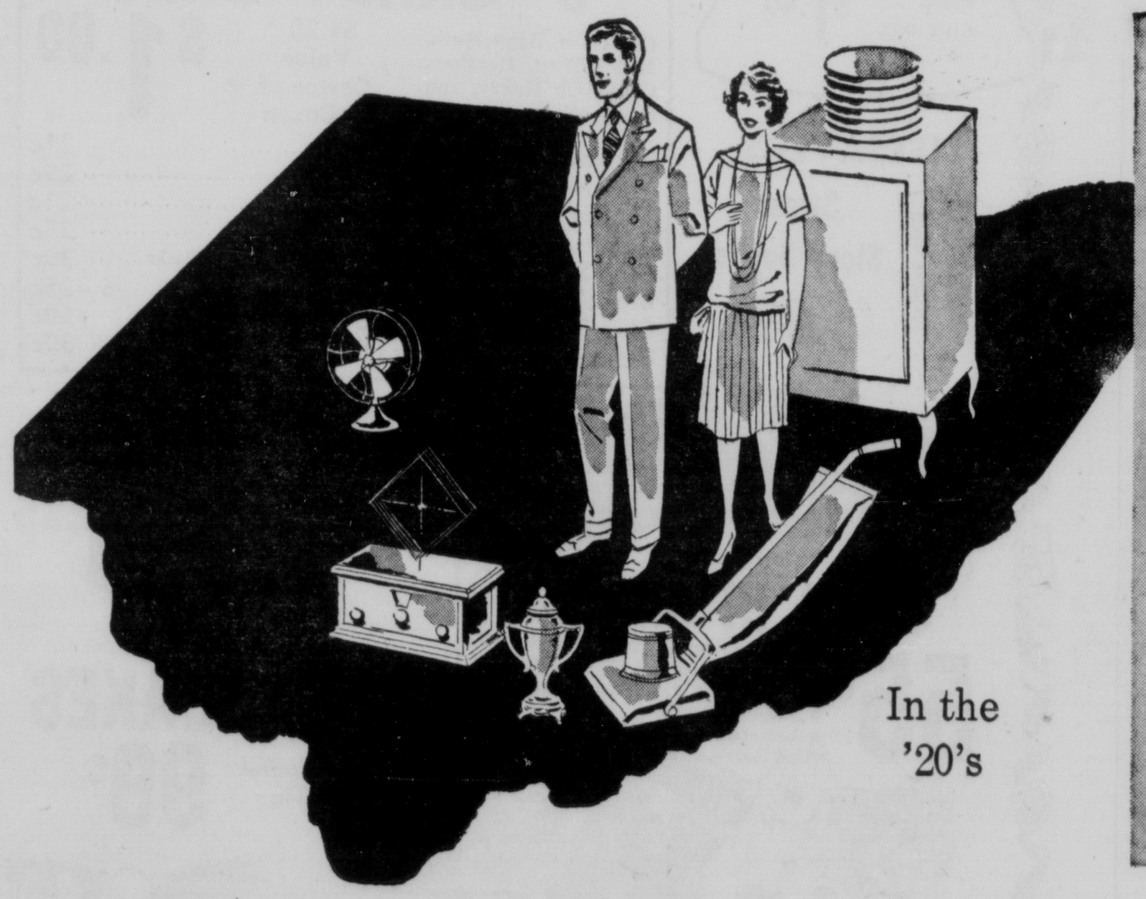
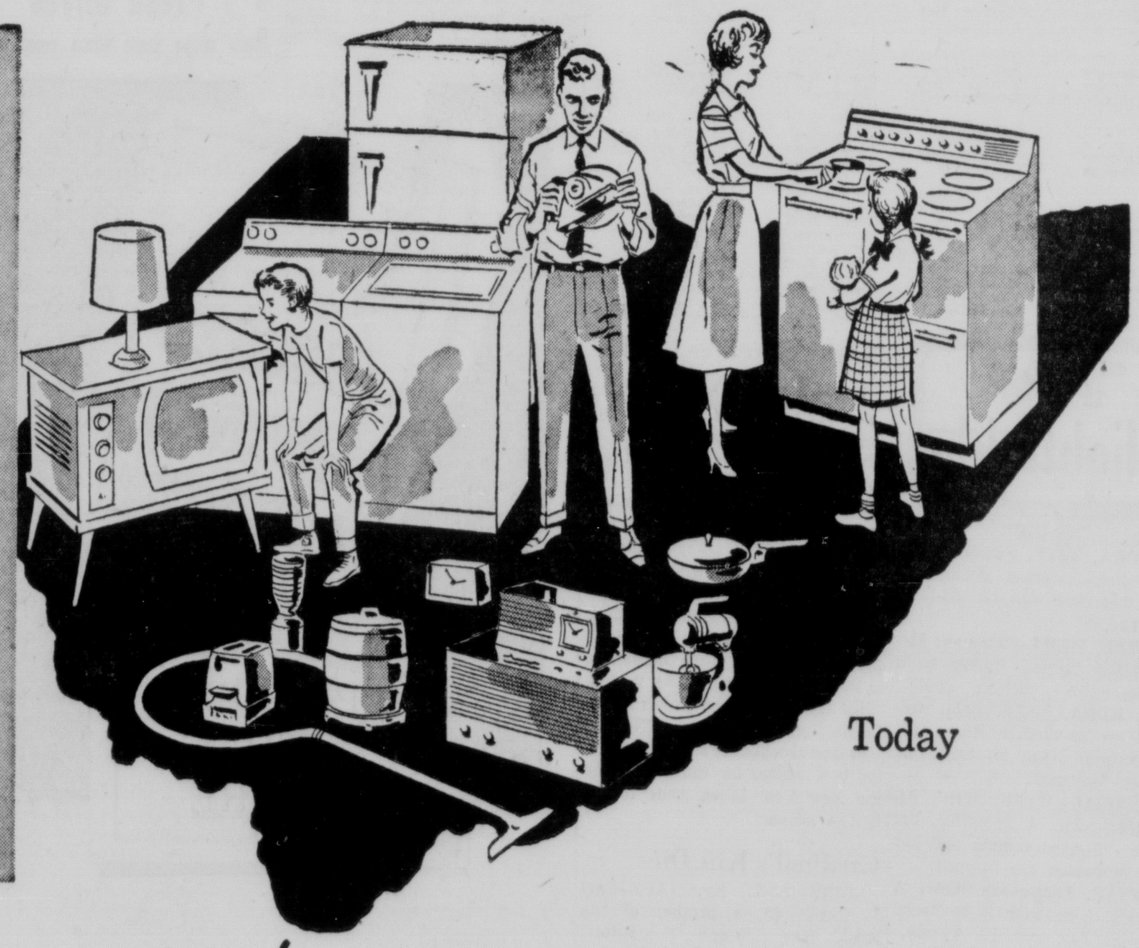
In Ohio, electricity remains the biggest bargain in your budget!





A lot has happened to your budget since the "good old days" of the 20's and 30's. Let's take a look.

Just since 1935 your cost of living has risen 116%. But—electricity didn't go up with it! Here in Ohio you actually pay 16% less!*

How has electricity remained such a bargain?

A big part of the answer is found in Ohio's business climate. Because the electric companies have been able to earn reasonable returns, they have been able to raise the millions needed to make improvements. Through such improvements, they have kept the price of electricity down. Your increased use of electricity has helped too. Thanks to Ohio's business climate, electricity remains the biggest bargain in your budget!

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — At 8:45 each morning, about 250 children line up to go to school in an old garage.

From all oustide appearances, that is. Inside the concrete block and corrugated iron building — once an automobile engine rebuilding plant — the eight new classrooms of the St. Bernard Private School shine spotlesly.

Probably none of the children realize it, but they troop into something of an educational marvel.

Parents—determined their children would not attend integrated schools — transformed the huge hall in less than one month.

Banks of fluorescent lamps flooded the classrooms, each containing 35 desks in prim rows.

An old-fashioned school bell called the children to attention. Supt. Joseph Davies of St. Bernard Parish schools displayed the classrooms eagerly.

"It's far from being a barn, isn't it?" he asked Associated Press newsmen.

Armand Duvio, a plumber by trade and a segregationist by choice, smiled broadly, his hands rammed deeper in his pockets. It was Duvio who fathered the school when William Frantz and McDonogh No. 19 were integrated Nov.14 under federal court order.

"This wasn't any job by jackleg carpenters, electricians or do-it-yourself painters," Davies said. "These were professional men, as good as any we would have hired had the job been on a contract basis."

Workmen on their own time—men whose children would have been forced to attend Frantz or McDonogh—did the work. The job is professional, no doubt about that.

Retired teachers, or those who have teaching certificates and never taught, instruct the children. The supplies come from the state. Most of the food in the cafeteria is donated.

But this is only the beginning. Duvio hopes to have a cooperative school for 2,000 children readied by next September. It will be free, no tuition, no costs.

Jan. 16 Hearing Set In Trumbull Election Dispute

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—A hearing is scheduled tentatively for Jan. 16 on a suit by James J. Baldine to invalidate the 2,300 absentee ballots cast in Trumbull County at the Nov. 8 election.

Baldine, a Hubbard Democrat, lost to Dr. W. A. James, a Republican, by 29 votes in a recount of the race for Trumbull County Commissioner. James held an edge of about 700, or nearly 2-1, in the absentee ballot count.

The recount, which cost Baldine half of $2,390 he had posted, resulted in James picking up six votes over his total in the unofficial count.

James already has been issued a certificate of election and sworn in for another term as commissioner.

Baldine asked that he be declared the winner on grounds that the absentee ballots should be disqualified for 32 reasons. Among the reasons he listed were that absentee ballots were issued without due request from electors; that errors were made in tabulation, that ballots were improperly filled out, and that some were cast by persons who had moved out of the county permanently.

$150,000 Fire Loss

CINCINNATI (AP)—A defective gas heating unit was apparently the cause of the Dec. 11 fire that destroyed an Albers chain market on U.S. 42, investigators say. The probers reported Monday after sifting the ruins of the blaze that caused a $150,000 loss.

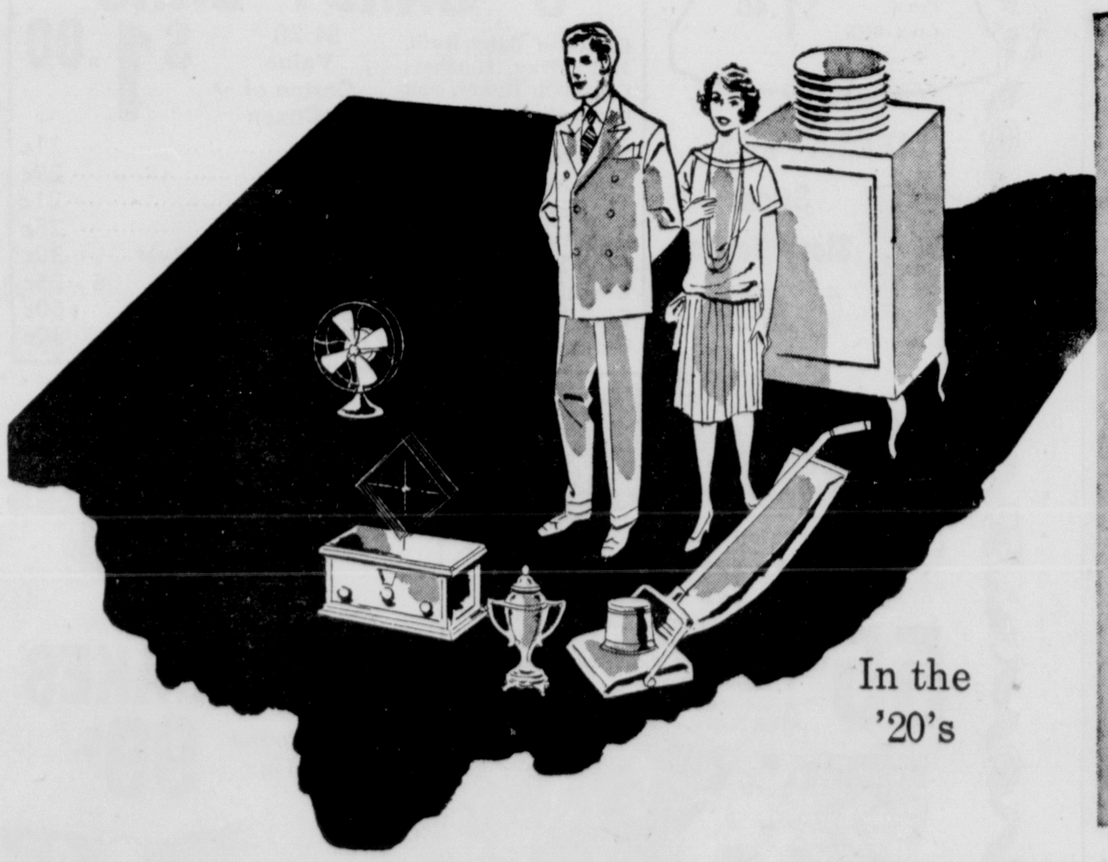
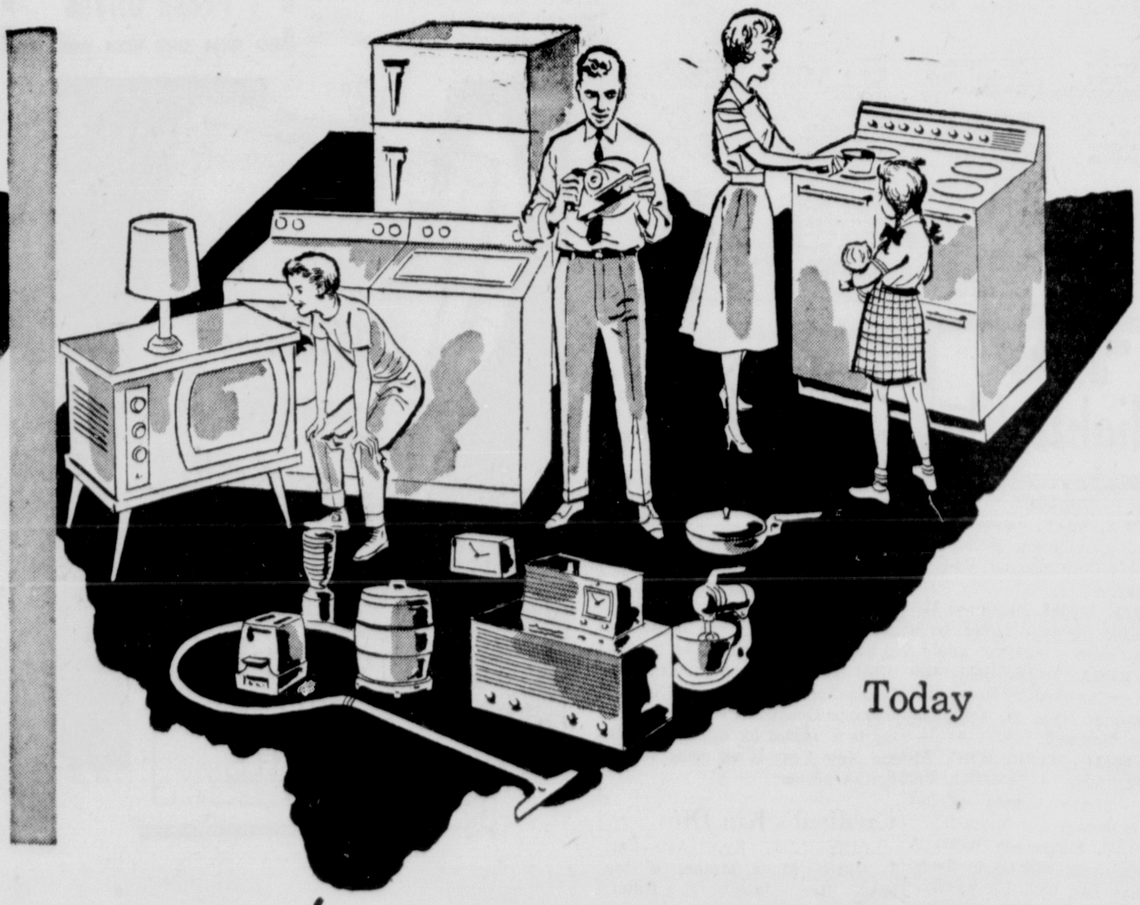
In Ohio, electricity remains the biggest bargain in your budget!





A lot has happened to your budget since the "good old days" of the 20's and 30's. Let's take a look.

Just since 1935 your cost of living has risen 116%. But—electricity didn't go up with it! Here in Ohio you actually pay 16% less!*

How has electricity remained such a bargain?

A big part of the answer is found in Ohio's business climate. Because the electric companies have been able to earn reasonable returns, they have been able to raise the millions needed to make improvements. Through such improvements, they have kept the price of electricity down. Your increased use of electricity has helped too. Thanks to Ohio's business climate, electricity remains the biggest bargain in your budget!

He Wasn't Kidding . . .

While talking to Kenny Miller Friday afternoon, prior to the Warren-East Liverpool game, we asked in a kidding way, "Can we count on you for 30 points tonight?" Miller, ribbing right back, said "yes."

In the game, which East Liverpool won 65-53, Miller scored 29 points. After the game yours truly congratulated the Potter cager and said, "You weren't kidding. "Miller grinned and, in an almost apologetic manner, replied, "no, but I missed by one."

If Miller can continue to come through in the scoring department it will be valuable to the Potters, since he can take some of the pressure off Kenny Cunningham.

TOM CLARK, a senior substitute, only played six minutes Friday, but we were impressed with his rebounding ability. It is the first time in the two games we have seen a Potter cager come off the backboard with such authority.

When Clark scored a basket it was the first two - pointer tallied by a Potter center in two contests.

Perry Hurst and "Huck" Steffen also performed adequately. Hurst has fine speed and Steffen pocketed two quick goals in his brief appearance.

EAST LIVERPOOL will mark time until the Holiday Tournament at Memorial Auditorium on Dec. 29-30. The tourney looks like a tossup at present.

There isn't an outstanding team record wise in it and not one of the four squads the tourney undefeated.

East Liverpool is 1-1 at present, Midland has a 3-2 mark, Massillon is 0-4 and Marietta shows the best mark to date with three victories against one setback. The Tigers play Ironton Thursday.

Allen Set For Blue-Gray Game . . .

BERNIE ALLEN of East Liverpool will be one of three Purdue regulars starting in the annual Blue - Gray game Dec. 31 at Montgomery, Ala.

Coach Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue is head coach of the Blue squad and has spotted his boys at key positions. Of course Allen will be the No. 1 offensive quarterback, while Phil Kardasz will be at center and all-conference tackle Jerry Beabout of Mansfield in the starting offensive line.

These three spots are considered vital to a coach who is taking over an all-star team. Allen and Kardasz have worked together all season and Beabout can pretty well lead the Blue's charging line.

The squads won't have much time to prepare for the contest. Players are to report Saturday at Montgomery.

Another Ohio boy and an opponent of Allen's in high school will be in the Blue's backfield. He is Muskingum's Bill "Cannonball" Cooper of New Philadelphia, who broke every scoring and rushing mark in the Ohio Conference and was named to the Little All-American first team.

Too Many Walking Violations? . . .

WITH THE 1960-61 basketball season old enough to form definite patterns, we have only one complaint to make.

It's directed at the basketball rules committee and officials — go easy on the traveling calls.

If there is any call that has irked players and fans so far, it has been traveling. A new definition of walking with the ball was added this season, so now officials are step conscious and the whistles are tooting more than ever.

Since there was new emphasis placed on this particular violation, some officials seem to be blowing their whistles from imagination.

We hope that by next season when the rules committee sits down to make additions and changes, that it will not place so much emphasis on steps.

Too many calls for this violation can spoil the game, not only for the fans but for the players, who will wind up almost afraid to touch the ball.

Traveling should be called the way it always has. Let the boys play basketball. You can't change something they have learned from the first time they became acquainted with the game.

LARRY BRUNO, who first came in contact with football at East Liverpool, has been named to the Geneva College All-Time football team.

Bruno, a halfback, led the slate and nation in scoring 85 points in 1946 and was named to the second Little All-American team and received honorable mention in All-American selections.

He came up with his greatest achievement as a high school coach this past season when his Beaver Falls team went undefeated to win the WPIAL football crown.

Bradley Posts 7th Victory To Keep Up Pace

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jerry Lucas, Chet Walker, Tom Stith, Art Heyman, Dave DeBusschere and Doug Moe—without 'em six of the nation's top 11 teams might just be a bunch of guys.

Instead, these individuals have given Ohio State, Bradley, St. Bonaventure, Duke, Detroit and North Carolina a stronger hold in the latest Associated Press ranking of top teams with victories Monday night.

The current poll features 11 teams, with a tie for the No. 10 spot between North Carolina and North Carolina State.

Lucas scored 19 points, nine in a clinching spurt, for top-ranked Ohio State as the Buckeyes (5-0) beat Loyola of Chicago, 90-65. Walker's 29 helped Bradley batter down stubborn Idaho 97-68 while Stith also scored 29 in St. Bonaventure's easy 86-49 victory over Western Ontario. Bradley and the Bonnies are ranked 2-3 and both have 7-0 records.

Heyman got 23 points in seventh-ranked Duke's 61-48 victory over Georgia Tech and DeBusschere scored 27 as his Detroit Titans (No. 8) defeated Gonzaga 80-75. Moe's 26 helped North Carolina get the job done against Creighton 72-64.

Ohio State still got balanced scoring from the rest of its defending NCAA champions as Lucas sat out the last 11 minutes with four fouls. However his crucial nine-point spree came when the Bucks iced the game on a 13-5 splurge during a 55-point second half. California (5-0) defeated Northwestern 62-40 in the first game of the Chicago Stadium twinbill. Loyola's loss was its first in six games.

Cincinnati, Bradley's chief competitor for Missouri Valley Conference honors, got 23 points from Bob Wiesenhahn and 21 from Paul Hogue in beating Nebraska 75-60. Bob Nordmann scored 15 points but a tenacious man-to-man defense did even more in St. Louis' 52-26 victory over San Jose State.

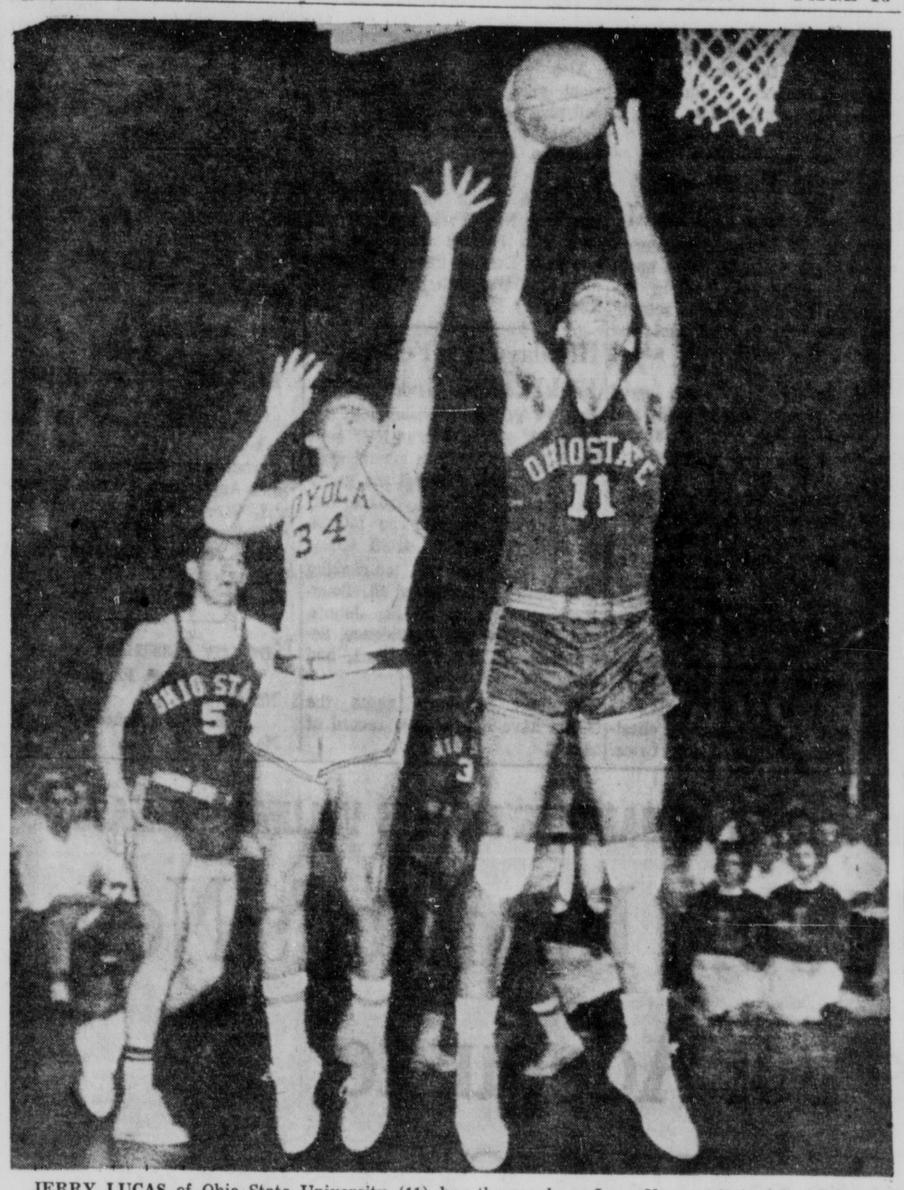
Ray Swain's field goal in the last few seconds was the clincher in Florida State's 65-64 victory over Clemson while Jan Loudermilk's two fouls in the final three minutes put Southern Methodist ahead to stay in a 68-60 decision of Minnesota.

Don Nelson scored 34 points as Iowa set a team scoring record in a 104-64 pasting of Arizona. Drake won its sixth straight, 75-54 over Wyoming and Vanderbilt did likewise, 80-78 over Texas Tech. Wichita went on a 12-point spree in the first half and wound up with a 94-76 victory over Michigan. Sub Charkey Madzro provided the play-making spark and Gary Daniels canned 30 points in The Citadel's 82-72 victory over Georgia.

In other games, Oklahoma won over Colorado State University 56-50, Xavier (Ohio) beat St. Mary's (Tex.) 95-79, Illinois conquered Washington State 79-58, Tulsa knocked off Baylor 73-66, and Memphis State defeated Seattle 86-81.

Stewart Rolls 720 In League Competition

Lanes 7 and 8 were burning up Monday at the Don-Bus Alleys when veteran southpaw bowler Chuck Stewart rolled a blazing 720 series. Bowling for Reark's Stogies in the National League, Stewart amassed his total with games of 239, 268 and 213. The 720 series was the second highest bowled in the city this season. Al Sayre fired a 721 earlier this year.



JERRY LUCAS of Ohio State University (11) has the reach on Jerry Verwey (34) of Loyola as he grabs a rebound during Monday's game in Chicago Stadium. At left is John Havlicek (5) of Ohio State, which is the nation's No. 1 college basketball team. Ohio State defeated Loyola, 90-65. (UPI Telephoto)

Wellsville, Billiards Battle In City League

A strong Wellsville entry, edged last week, will attempt to get back into contention for first place and at the same time bust the American Billiard's three - game winning streak Wednesday night in the City Basketball League.

The Billiard five remains as the only undefeated team in the league after knocking off rival Chester last week.

Both Wellsville and Chester are deadlocked with identical 2-1 records.

The Wellsville-Billiard game is set for 7:30 Wednesday at the Westgate gym.

In the opener at 6:30, the East End Merchants with a 1-2 mark meet Freed's, the big disappointment so far this season, by not having one victory to its credit. Freed's won the City League title last season.

At 8:30, the finale pits George Bright's against Chester.

Wednesday's schedule follows:

6:30—Freed's vs. East End Merchants

7:30 — American Billiards vs. Wellsville

8:30 — Chester vs. George Bright's

Banning Olympic Champs Suggested By Brundage

CHICAGO (AP)—Banning Olympic champions from future games has been suggested by President Avery Brundage of the International Olympic Committee as an aid to competition.

Brundage said Monday that such a restriction might open the games to more people and lessen the chances of athletes "making a career out of sports."

The proposal, along with others aimed at protecting the amateur status of the games and reducing their seize, Brundage said, will be discussed at "an extremely important" meeting of the committee in Athens next June.

"We have been talking about doing something about amateurism for a long time, but this time we will act," said Brundage, longtime champion of simon-pure athletics. He did not disclose the other proposals.

The 1964 games will be held in Tokyo, with the Winter Olympics that year in Innsbruck, Austria.

American Olympic officials, declining to be identified, said they do not believe Olympic champions will be barred as Brundage has suggested.

Chamberlain Holds Scoring Lead In NBA

NEW YORK (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain has slipped a bit in game-average, but The Stilt of the Philadelphia Warriors still leads Elgin Baylor of Los Angels in the scoring race.

Chamberlain out-scored Baylor 132-105 in four games last week and official statistics today showed he has a 36.9 average and a 51-point lead in total points. Baylor has a 34.1 average on 1,056 points for 31 games, one more than Chamberlain, who has scored 1,107.

A week ago, Chamberlain had a 37.5 average and Baylor 35.2.

Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati is third in scoring with 929.

Fans Backed Team In Dark Days

Pride, Stubbornness Kept NFL's Smallest City Going

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — If you look at it from one point of view, Green Bay shouldn't be in the National Football League at all. It has only about 60,000 population, and what kind of city is that to compete with New York, Chicago and other large centers?

But if you consider the human factors of pride and just plain stubborness, it can be seen why the Green Bay Packers have been members of the league since 1921 while other communities found the going too tough.

The Packers play at Philadelphia Dec. 26 for the league championship and there is great joy here after years of frustration.

The Packers are more than a team in this area. Loyalty for the club approaches that of a cult — sincere and fierce.

During bleak days when the team flopped around in and near the league cellar, the fans bought tickets even when prospects of victory were remote.

Now the picture is different and Green Bay is mighty proud.

The Packers got their name in the early 20s when a meat-packing firm furnished the jerseys and met some other expenses as an advertising venture. Earl Curley Lambeau was the first coach and prime organizer. He also was employed by the packing firm.

At times during those early days club officials passed the hat among spectators, to rake up a few bucks.

The team was taken over by a group of civic-minded, and football-loving, citizens who formed a nonprofit corporation and sold stock.

The original stock certificates are regarding here as akin to proof that one's ancestors came over on the Mayflower.

Lambeau's teams took NL titles in 1929, '30, '31, '36, '39 and '44.

The golden era ended and Lambeau left after the 1940 season. The team had a financial crisis and $125,000 was raised in a stock sale.

The lean years continued until last year when Vince Lombardi was made boss man—general manager as well as head coach. In previous years many decisions were handled by committees, with frequent bickering and delays.

Lombardi's first year—1959—resulted in 7 victories and 5 losses. This year the team won the Western Division title on a record of 8-4.

The city has built a million-dollar stadium seating around 32,000 and the club is in good financial shape.

It was a long haul but Green Bay is riding high again.

Redskins New Grid Boss Becomes Youngest In NFL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bill McPeak, at 34 the youngest head coach in the National Football League, has given himself a year to prod the drooping Washington Redskins out of their losing rut.

And he may be the kind of whip cracker who can do it—although no other Redskin coach in the past decade or more has been able to make the once proud team a winner.

To nobody's surprise, owner George Preston Marshall announced Monday that McPeak — veteran of 12 years in the NFL —was replacing Mike Nixon as field boss of the 'Skins.

Nixon was fired Sunday after Washington ended its most dismal season in 24 years—winning only one game while losing nine and tying two. In Nixon's two years as head coach the 'Skins won a grand total of four games.

McPeak, former all-pro end with the Pittsburgh Steelers, was Nixon's top assistant before Marshall tapped him to undertake the job of rebuilding the club into a championship contender.

Marshall said McPeak was getting a one-year contract, at McPeak's request. Salary figures were not disclosed.

McPeak confirmed he had asked for a short term contract, saying, "I feel that I can prove myself in a year."

Finley Seeks 100 Per Cent Of Ownership

CHICAGO (AP) — Insurance broker Charles Finley, who purchased 52 per cent of the Kansas City A's baseball club, now is aiming for 100 per cent ownership.

Finley, 42, put up $1,975,000 for controlling interest of the A's by purchasing the stock held in the estate of the late Arnold Johnson.

Probate Judge Robert Dunne approved Finley's bid. Final court approval of the purchase is contingent on Finley being accepted by the American League.

Finley, who has been trying to buy a major league club for the last six years, is in position to purchase the remaining 48 per cent of the team's stock.

A Kansas City group, which was outbid by Finley for Johnson's stock, has options to purchase the minority holdings. This group, however, has said it would be willing to let Finley buy the 48 per cent providing he would keep the club in Kansas City for at least five years.

Finley, who says he wants to buy the remaining stock, estimated it would cost him an additional $1,925,000, making the total cost $3,900,000.

Finley said Joe Gordon definitely will remain as the club's field manager but added that he has given no consideration to Parke Carroll's job as general manager.

Finley, who says he will surround himself with the best baseball brains available, has his work cut out in trying to make the A's a winner. The A's have finished in the first division but once in the last 12 years, and that was fourth while in Philadelphia in 1952.

Bally Ache, victor in 10 of 15 starts and unplaced only once, earned $455,045 in 1960 then succumbed while in retirement.

Baylor Bags 39 In Lakers' Win

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Detroi Pistons will try again tonight to find out how to handle Elgin Baylor and the Los Angeles Lakers.

For the fourth consecutive time this year the Pistons failed to come up with the answer Monday night, going down to 107-103 defeat and sinking to last place in the National Basketball Association Western Dviision while the Lakers moved into second place.

The two teams are only a game apart, however, in that race.

Baylor scored 39 points as he led the Lakers in a fourth-quarter rally.

Houston, Dallas Stars Get Weekly Acclaim In AFL

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dennis Morris, Houston's middle linebacker, and Cotton Davidson, Dallas' quarterback, were selected as winners of the season's final weekly acclaim in the American Football League.

Sportswriters who cover AFL games voted Oiler Morris player-of-the-week on defense for his role in Houston's 37-21 victory over the Boston Patriots Sunday.

Davidson was honored by the sportswriters as the outstanding player on offense in the Texans' 24-7 triumph over the Buffalo Bills.

Morris blocked an extra-point attempt, grabbed a Boston fumble in the air and started Houston on the way to a touchdown. He was a stalwart in the Oilers' defense.

Davidson threw touchdown passes of 33 and 74 yards to pull Dallas from behind in the second half. He completed 18 of 37 passes for 334 yards.

Norm Halberstadt, a junior on the Virginia Military Institute quintet, comes from Brooklyn, N. Y. Last season he led the Keydets in scoring with 372 points in 20 games.

4 Rookies Snare Statistics Titles First Year In AFL

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A spectacular crop of rookies, led by Abner Haynes of the Dallas Texans, won four individual statistics titles in their first year of play in the new American Football League.

Haynes, the galloping Negro star from North Texas State, won the coveted rushing title with 875 yards on 156 carries. He edged Pau Lowe of Los Angeles by only 20 yards.

In the scoring race, Denver halfback Gene Mingo, a rookie without college experience, edged old pro George Blanda of Houston. Mingo scored 123 points to 115 for Blanda.

Jack Spies, Dallas' rookie fullback from Texas Christian, scored 103 points for third place in rushing.

Paul Maguire, Los Angeles' rookie from the Citadel, won the punting title with an average of 40.5 yards.

Blue And White Club To Meet Tonight At 8

The Blue and White Nonpareil Club will meet tonight at 8 in the YMCA with a nominating committee scheduled to present a slate of officers for 1961. Charles Winters is committee chairman.

Mike McCormick Wins ERA Crown

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Giants —a combinaion of the New York and San Francisco varieties — seem bent on making the National League individual earned run pitching championship their personal property.

Official league pitching averages released today showed Mike McCormick, young Giant southpaw, led the loop's hurlers in 1960 by allowing an average of 2.70 earned runs a nine-inning game in 23 innings of work. He had a record of 15 victories and 13 defeats.

It was the third straight year the title had gone to a San Francisco Giant hurler and it was the fifth time in the last nine years a Giant had finished on top.

Sam Jones was tops in 1959 with a 2.82 average and Stu Miller won in 1958 with a 2.47 mark. When the Giants were in New York, Johnny Antonelli won the title in 1954 and Hoyt Wilhelm did it in 1952.

All-America halfback Joe Bellino of Navy scored five touchdowns in three games against Army.

Nelson Of Iowa Takes Big 10 Scoring Lead

CHICAGO (AP)—Don Nelson of Iowa took over the Big Ten all-games basketball scoring lead following a 34-point output against Arizona Monday night.

Nelson has 167 points in six games for a 27.6 average and a comfortable lead over Ohio State All-America Jerry Lucas. Lucas has 127 points in five games for a 25.4 average.

John Tidwell of Michigan has a 23.0 average with 161 points in seven games. Also over the magic 20 mark are Indiana's Walt Bellamy, hitting 21.8 per game, and Purdue's Terry Dischinger, 21.6.

Backing Lucas for Ohio are John Havlicek and Larry Siegfried, tied for 10th among conference players with 15.0 averages on 75 points each.

LARRY BRUNO, who first came in contact with football at East Liverpool, has been named to the Geneva College All-Time football team.

Bruno, a halfback, led the slate and nation in scoring 85 points in 1946 and was named to the second Little All-American team and received honorable mention in All-American selections.

He came up with his greatest achievement as a high school coach this past season when his Beaver Falls team went undefeated to win the WPIAL football crown.

Redskins New Grid Boss Becomes Youngest In NFL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bill McPeak, at 34 the youngest head coach in the National Football League, has given himself a year to prod the drooping Washington Redskins out of their losing rut.

And he may be the kind of whip cracker who can do it—although no other Redskin coach in the past decade or more has been able to make the once proud team a winner.

To nobody's surprise, owner George Preston Marshall announced Monday that McPeak — veteran of 12 years in the NFL —was replacing Mike Nixon as field boss of the 'Skins.

Nixon was fired Sunday after Washington ended its most dismal season in 24 years—winning only one game while losing nine and tying two. In Nixon's two years as head coach the 'Skins won a grand total of four games.

McPeak, former all-pro end with the Pittsburgh Steelers, was Nixon's top assistant before Marshall tapped him to undertake the job of rebuilding the club into a championship contender.

Marshall said McPeak was getting a one-year contract, at McPeak's request. Salary figures were not disclosed.

McPeak confirmed he had asked for a short term contract, saying, "I feel that I can prove myself in a year."

Baylor Bags 39 In Lakers' Win

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Detroi Pistons will try again tonight to find out how to handle Elgin Baylor and the Los Angeles Lakers.

For the fourth consecutive time this year the Pistons failed to come up with the answer Monday night, going down to 107-103 defeat and sinking to last place in the National Basketball Association Western Dviision while the Lakers moved into second place.

The two teams are only a game apart, however, in that race.

Finley Seeks 100 Per Cent Of Ownership

CHICAGO (AP) — Insurance broker Charles Finley, who purchased 52 per cent of the Kansas City A's baseball club, now is aiming for 100 per cent ownership.

Finley, 42, put up $1,975,000 for controlling interest of the A's by purchasing the stock held in the estate of the late Arnold Johnson.

Probate Judge Robert Dunne approved Finley's bid. Final court approval of the purchase is contingent on Finley being accepted by the American League.

Finley, who has been trying to buy a major league club for the last six years, is in position to purchase the remaining 48 per cent of the team's stock.

A Kansas City group, which was outbid by Finley for Johnson's stock, has options to purchase the minority holdings. This group, however, has said it would be willing to let Finley buy the 48 per cent providing he would keep the club in Kansas City for at least five years.

Finley, who says he wants to buy the remaining stock, estimated it would cost him an additional $1,925,000, making the total cost $3,900,000.

Finley said Joe Gordon definitely will remain as the club's field manager but added that he has given no consideration to Parke Carroll's job as general manager.

Finley, who says he will surround himself with the best baseball brains available, has his work cut out in trying to make the A's a winner. The A's have finished in the first division but once in the last 12 years, and that was fourth while in Philadelphia in 1952.

Bally Ache, victor in 10 of 15 starts and unplaced only once, earned $455,045 in 1960 then succumbed while in retirement.

Buckeyes Roll To 5th Straight Over Loyola

Bradley Posts 7th Victory To Keep Up Pace

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jerry Lucas, Chet Walker, Tom Stith, Art Heyman, Dave DeBusschere and Doug Moe—without 'em six of the nation's top 11 teams might just be a bunch of guys.

Instead, these individuals have given Ohio State, Bradley, St. Bonaventure, Duke, Detroit and North Carolina a stronger hold in the latest Associated Press ranking of top teams with victories Monday night.

The current poll features 11 teams, with a tie for the No. 10 spot between North Carolina and North Carolina State.

Lucas scored 19 points, nine in a clinching spurt, for top-ranked Ohio State as the Buckeyes (5-0) beat Loyola of Chicago, 90-65. Walker's 29 helped Bradley batter down stubborn Idaho 97-68 while Stith also scored 29 in St. Bonaventure's easy 86-49 victory over Western Ontario. Bradley and the Bonnies are ranked 2-3 and both have 7-0 records.

Heyman got 23 points in seventh-ranked Duke's 61-48 victory over Georgia Tech and DeBusschere scored 27 as his Detroit Titans (No. 8) defeated Gonzaga 80-75. Moe's 26 helped North Carolina get the job done against Creighton 72-64.

Ohio State still got balanced scoring from the rest of its defending NCAA champions as Lucas sat out the last 11 minutes with four fouls. However his crucial nine-point spree came when the Bucks iced the game on a 13-5 splurge during a 55-point second half. California (5-0) defeated Northwestern 62-40 in the first game of the Chicago Stadium twinbill. Loyola's loss was its first in six games.

Cincinnati, Bradley's chief competitor for Missouri Valley Conference honors, got 23 points from Bob Wiesenhahn and 21 from Paul Hogue in beating Nebraska 75-60. Bob Nordmann scored 15 points but a tenacious man-to-man defense did even more in St. Louis' 52-26 victory over San Jose State.

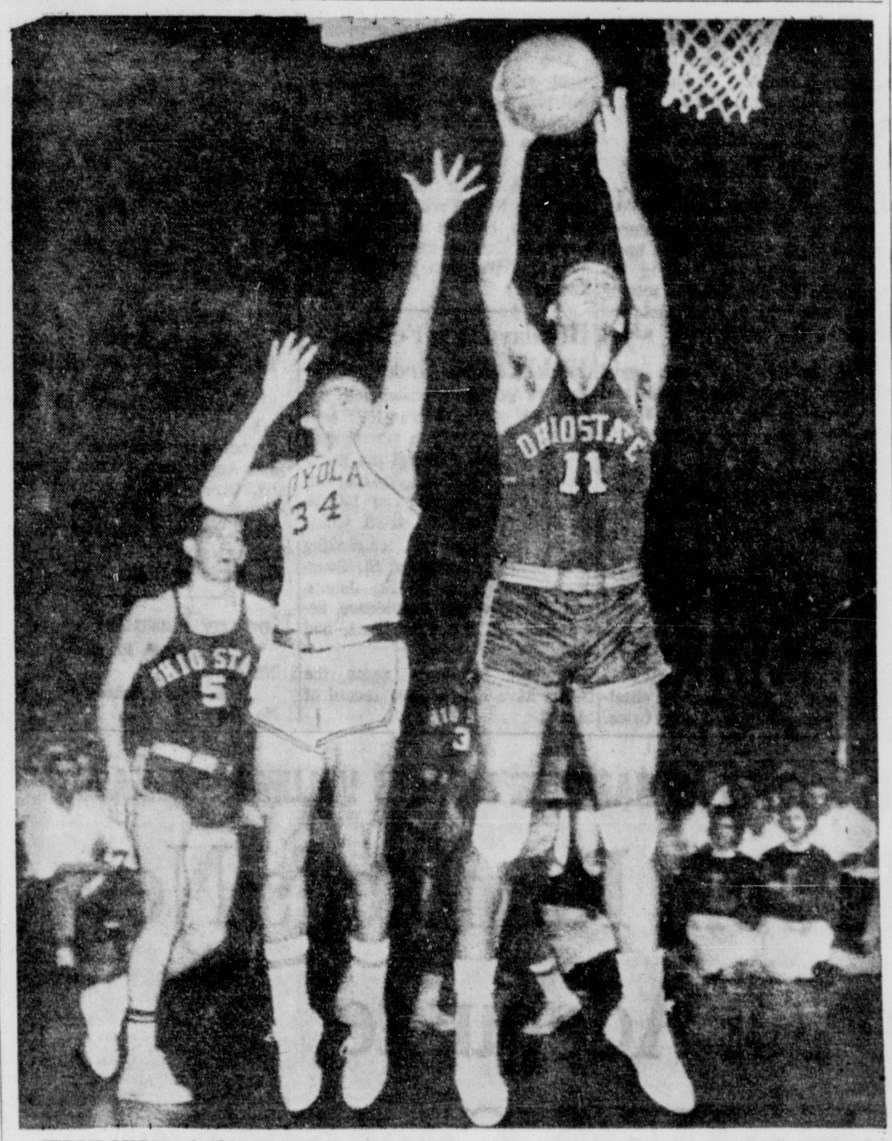
Ray Swain's field goal in the last few seconds was the clincher in Florida State's 65-64 victory over Clemson while Jan Loudermilk's two fouls in the final three minutes put Southern Methodist ahead to stay in a 68-60 decision of Minnesota.

Don Nelson scored 34 points as Iowa set a team scoring record in a 104-64 pasting of Arizona. Drake won its sixth straight, 75-54 over Wyoming and Vanderbilt did likewise, 80-78 over Texas Tech. Wichita went on a 12-point spree in the first half and wound up with a 94-76 victory over Michigan. Sub Charkey Madzro provided the play-making spark and Gary Daniels canned 30 points in The Citadel's 82-72 victory over Georgia.

In other games, Oklahoma won over Colorado State University 56-50, Xavier (Ohio) beat St. Mary's (Tex.) 95-79, Illinois conquered Washington State 79-58, Tulsa knocked off Baylor 73-66, and Memphis State defeated Seattle 86-81.

Stewart Rolls 720 In League Competition

Lanes 7 and 8 were burning up Monday at the Don-Bus Alleys when veteran southpaw bowler Chuck Stewart rolled a blazing 720 series. Bowling for Reark's Stogies in the National League, Stewart amassed his total with games of 239, 268 and 213. The 720 series was the second highest bowled in the city this season. Al Sayre fired a 721 earlier this year.



JERRY LUCAS of Ohio State University (11) has the reach on Jerry Verwey (34) of Loyola as he grabs a rebound during Monday's game in Chicago Stadium. At left is John Havlicek (5) of Ohio State, which is the nation's No. 1 college basketball team. Ohio State defeated Loyola, 90-65. (UPI Telephoto)

Fans Backed Team In Dark Days

Pride, Stubbornness Kept NFL's Smallest City Going

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — If you look at it from one point of view, Green Bay shouldn't be in the National Football League at all. It has only about 60,000 population, and what kind of city is that to compete with New York, Chicago and other large centers?

But if you consider the human factors of pride and just plain stubborness, it can be seen why the Green Bay Packers have been members of the league since 1921 while other communities found the going too tough.

The Packers play at Philadelphia Dec. 26 for the league championship and there is great joy here after years of frustration.

The Packers are more than a team in this area. Loyalty for the club approaches that of a cult — sincere and fierce.

During bleak days when the team flopped around in and near the league cellar, the fans bought tickets even when prospects of victory were remote.

Now the picture is different and Green Bay is mighty proud.

The Packers got their name in the early 20s when a meat-packing firm furnished the jerseys and met some other expenses as an advertising venture. Earl Curley Lambeau was the first coach and prime organizer. He also was employed by the packing firm.

At times during those early days club officials passed the hat among spectators, to rake up a few bucks.

The team was taken over by a group of civic-minded, and football-loving, citizens who formed a nonprofit corporation and sold stock.

The original stock certificates are regarding here as akin to proof that one's ancestors came over on the Mayflower.

Lambeau's teams took NL titles in 1929, '30, '31, '36, '39 and '44.

The golden era ended and Lambeau left after the 1940 season. The team had a financial crisis and $125,000 was raised in a stock sale.

The lean years continued until last year when Vince Lombardi was made boss man—general manager as well as head coach. In previous years many decisions were handled by committees, with frequent bickering and delays.

Lombardi's first year—1959—resulted in 7 victories and 5 losses. This year the team won the Western Division title on a record of 8-4.

The city has built a million-dollar stadium seating around 32,000 and the club is in good financial shape.

It was a long haul but Green Bay is riding high again.

Houston, Dallas Stars Get Weekly Acclaim In AFL

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dennis Morris, Houston's middle linebacker, and Cotton Davidson, Dallas' quarterback, were selected as winners of the season's final weekly acclaim in the American Football League.

Sportswriters who cover AFL games voted Oiler Morris player-of-the-week on defense for his role in Houston's 37-21 victory over the Boston Patriots Sunday.

Davidson was honored by the sportswriters as the outstanding player on offense in the Texans' 24-7 triumph over the Buffalo Bills.

Morris blocked an extra-point attempt, grabbed a Boston fumble in the air and started Houston on the way to a touchdown. He was a stalwart in the Oilers' defense.

Davidson threw touchdown passes of 33 and 74 yards to pull Dallas from behind in the second half. He completed 18 of 37 passes for 334 yards.

Norm Halberstadt, a junior on the Virginia Military Institute quintet, comes from Brooklyn, N. Y. Last season he led the Keydets in scoring with 372 points in 20 games.

4 Rookies Snare Statistics Titles First Year In AFL

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A spectacular crop of rookies, led by Abner Haynes of the Dallas Texans, won four individual statistics titles in their first year of play in the new American Football League.

Haynes, the galloping Negro star from North Texas State, won the coveted rushing title with 875 yards on 156 carries. He edged Pau Lowe of Los Angeles by only 20 yards.

In the scoring race, Denver halfback Gene Mingo, a rookie without college experience, edged old pro George Blanda of Houston. Mingo scored 123 points to 115 for Blanda.

Jack Spies, Dallas' rookie fullback from Texas Christian, scored 103 points for third place in rushing.

Paul Maguire, Los Angeles' rookie from the Citadel, won the punting title with an average of 40.5 yards.

Mike McCormick Wins ERA Crown

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Giants —a combinaion of the New York and San Francisco varieties — seem bent on making the National League individual earned run pitching championship their personal property.

Official league pitching averages released today showed Mike McCormick, young Giant southpaw, led the loop's hurlers in 1960 by allowing an average of 2.70 earned runs a nine-inning game in 23 innings of work. He had a record of 15 victories and 13 defeats.

It was the third straight year the title had gone to a San Francisco Giant hurler and it was the fifth time in the last nine years a Giant had finished on top.

Sam Jones was tops in 1959 with a 2.82 average and Stu Miller won in 1958 with a 2.47 mark. When the Giants were in New York, Johnny Antonelli won the title in 1954 and Hoyt Wilhelm did it in 1952.

All-America halfback Joe Bellino of Navy scored five touchdowns in three games against Army.

Nelson Of Iowa Takes Big 10 Scoring Lead

CHICAGO (AP)—Don Nelson of Iowa took over the Big Ten all-games basketball scoring lead following a 34-point output against Arizona Monday night.

Nelson has 167 points in six games for a 27.6 average and a comfortable lead over Ohio State All-America Jerry Lucas. Lucas has 127 points in five games for a 25.4 average.

John Tidwell of Michigan has a 23.0 average with 161 points in seven games. Also over the magic 20 mark are Indiana's Walt Bellamy, hitting 21.8 per game, and Purdue's Terry Dischinger, 21.6.

Backing Lucas for Ohio are John Havlicek and Larry Siegfried, tied for 10th among conference players with 15.0 averages on 75 points each.

Wellsville, Billiards Battle In City League

A strong Wellsville entry, edged last week, will attempt to get back into contention for first place and at the same time bust the American Billiard's three - game winning streak Wednesday night in the City Basketball League.

The Billiard five remains as the only undefeated team in the league after knocking off rival Chester last week.

Both Wellsville and Chester are deadlocked with identical 2-1 records.

The Wellsville-Billiard game is set for 7:30 Wednesday at the Westgate gym.

In the opener at 6:30, the East End Merchants with a 1-2 mark meet Freed's, the big disappointment so far this season, by not having one victory to its credit. Freed's won the City League title last season.

At 8:30, the finale pits George Bright's against Chester.

Wednesday's schedule follows:

6:30—Freed's vs. East End Merchants

Banning Olympic Champs Suggested By Brundage

CHICAGO (AP)—Banning Olympic champions from future games has been suggested by President Avery Brundage of the International Olympic Committee as an aid to competition.

Brundage said Monday that such a restriction might open the games to more people and lessen the chances of athletes "making a career out of sports."

The proposal, along with others aimed at protecting the amateur status of the games and reducing their seize, Brundage said, will be discussed at "an extremely important" meeting of the committee in Athens next June.

"We have been talking about doing something about amateurism for a long time, but this time we will act," said Brundage, longtime champion of simon-pure athletics. He did not disclose the other proposals.

The 1964 games will be held in Tokyo, with the Winter Olympics that year in Innsbruck, Austria.

American Olympic officials, declining to be identified, said they do not believe Olympic champions will be barred as Brundage has suggested.

OSU Continue In No. 1 Spot

By The Associated Press

College basketball's top 10 has 11 in the elite list today with the addition of unbeaten Auburn. Ohio State and Bradley still rule the roost.

How come 10 becomes 11 in The Associated Press' weekly ratings? The votes of the 36 sports writers and sportscasters in the national panel brought about a tie for 10th between North Carolina and North Carolina State.

The selectors picked the same 10 teams of a week ago, plus Auburn, although many of the teams were shifted. The poll was based on games played through Saturday night.

There were no changes in the first two spots. Ohio State's NCAA champions (4-0) were the unanimous choice of the 36 for first, and Bradley (6-0) was almost as solid for second.

Detroit (4-1), third a week ago, fell to eighth, and St. Bonaventure (6-0) moved up from sixth to third. Indiana (4-1) held firm in fourth place, but North Carolina (3-2), beaten by Kentucky and Kansas State, fell from fifth to a tie for 10th with NC State (5-1).

Louisville (8-0) jumped from ninth to fifth, and St. John's (4-0) advanced from seventh to sixth. Duke (5-0) also received a promotion from eighth to seventh. Auburn (5-0) earned the ninth spot by beating Alabama 74-62 for the Birmingham Classic.

The leaders with won-lost records and first place votes in parentheses with points on a 10-9-8 etc. basis (records through games of Saturday, Dec. 17) are:

1.	Ohio State (36) (4-0)	360
2.	Bradley (6-0)	321
3.	St. Bonaventure (6-0)	212
4.	Indiana (4-1)	204
5.	Louisville (8-0)	178
6.	St. John's (4-0)	140
7.	Duke (5-0)	135
8.	Detroit (4-1)	81
9.	Auburn 5-0	68
10.	North Carolina (3-2)	39
(Tie)	N. C. State (5-1)	39

Others receiving votes included Kansas State 35, Providence 24, UCLA 18, Colorado 17, St. Louis 15, Vanderbilt 14, Utah 13, Wake Forest 11, Kansas and Drake 10 each, Memphis State 7, Kentucky 6, Purdue 4, Duquesne 3, Utah State 2, Marquette, Virginia Tech, Illinois, Iowa and Seton Hall, 1 each.

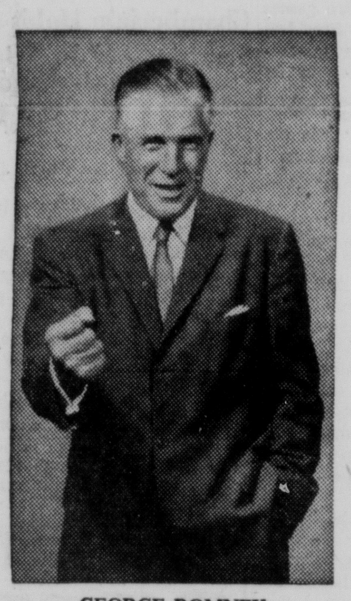
ANNOUNCING PAYMENTS TO RAMBLER BUYERS AS RAMBLER'S SALES VOLUME INCREASES

Why You Should Join Rambler's New Crusade For Adequate Progress Sharing With Customers



GEORGE ROMNEY
President, American Motors Corporation

"I believe participation by all consumers in economic progress is absolutely necessary in meeting the nation's economic needs."

Rambler's rise to a top position has put us in position to undertake a new crusade. This program, which could provide greater individual and national benefits than any we've yet undertaken, calls for customer progress sharing.

As volume goes up, costs come down. So, sharing economies that would result from a 50% Rambler sales gain over last year for the period December through March could provide payments to customers of $18,698,062.

But, before presenting our new Rambler crusade, let me review some highlights of the first one.

When we forged our basic Rambler concepts, U.S. cars were in a size, horsepower and styling-change race that cost the car buyer money. So, we developed the compact, economical, modernly engineered Rambler.

CONSUMER BENEFITS FROM LOWER PRICES

Because of low volume, we had to price our first Rambler Americans about equal with Chevrolet and Ford, traditionally "lowest priced."

As our output and economies increased, we shared the resulting economic advantages with Rambler customers. Despite inflation, we kept prices low. We also concentrated on durability and quality. That is why Rambler excels in trouble-free operation, as shown by trade surveys made by others.

What has this done? It has increased our sales—made us a vigorous new competitive factor, compelling all competitors to introduce compact cars. Their compact cars unquestionably are better buys than their big cars, because their big cars don't have the compacts' advanced engineering.

Despite these moves to meet Rambler competition, Rambler American models are now priced not only below competitive big cars but below their economy compacts as well.

In addition, Ramblers provide customers several exclusive trouble-free engineering advances such as the acid-proof, rustproof Ceramic-Armored muffler and tailpipe.

The Rambler line includes three basic sizes of compact cars—Rambler American, Rambler Classic and Ambassador, the latter two developed after the original American series.

RAMBLER SALES SOAR

In two years, Rambler's per cent of market has more than doubled. For the last 38 straight months, Rambler sales have established a new record for that month. We want to continue this growth by serving you even better.

THE NEW RAMBLER CRUSADE

Our new Rambler crusade, like our compact crusade, is based on sharing Rambler progress with car buyers.

We believe the new Rambler crusade has timely significance. Our country currently is experiencing a mild economic slowdown—with rising foreign competition and weakness of the dollar. Our larger competitors are considering partial manufacture and importation of cars for the U.S. market from abroad. There is a general profit squeeze.

We believe the greatest single economic cause is that relatively too much of the fruit of industrial effort has been going to a few well organized economic groups, not to the consumer.

CUSTOMERS TO SHARE RAMBLER PROGRESS

We decided there was something we could do. We decided to share future progress with ALL customers who take delivery of a new Rambler or new Metropolitan between December 1, 1960, and March 31, 1961, from an authorized Rambler dealer (excluding governmental sales), giving them most of the benefit of additional cost reduction resulting from further increases in Rambler sales volume.

This can mean a sharing with Rambler buyers during the 4-month period of government savings bonds (Series E) with a maturity value from $3,679,850 (10% sales increase), to $24,930,750 (50% increase). See chart for details.

HOW PAYMENTS TO BUYERS WILL BE DETERMINED IN AMERICAN MOTORS' CUSTOMER PROGRESS SHARING PROGRAM

IF SALES ARE UP (over last year)	BUYERS RECEIVE U.S. SAVINGS BONDS (Maturity Value)	BOND PAYMENT SALES LEVELS DECEMBER (Dec. sales)	JANUARY (Dec.-Jan. total)	FEBRUARY (Dec.-Jan.-Feb. total)	MARCH (4-month total)
50%	$125	45,247	97,671	140,139	195,946
40%	$100	42,231	91,159	130,796	182,883
30%	$ 75	39,214	84,648	121,453	169,820
20%	$ 50	36,198	78,136	112,111	156,757
10%	$ 25	33,181	71,625	102,768	143,694
SALES FOR SAME PERIOD LAST YEAR		30,165	65,114	93,426	130,631

NOTE: In all cases, "BUYER(S)" means a person who actually takes delivery, not places an order.

WHY IT WILL PAY YOU TO BUY NOW. This unique program is cumulative and retroactive. Early buyers can get more, but never less bonds, than buyers in succeeding months. Your Rambler dealer will be happy to give you the complete details of the plan but here is a quick example of how it works and keeps on working for you:

If December Rambler deliveries increase 20% over last December, December buyers of new Ramblers or Metropolitans will receive $50 bonds. As the four-month period progresses, additional bonds will be mailed to the December buyers each time the cumulative sales reach a higher bond payment sales level.

Also, if sales increase for the four-month period exceeds 50%, proportionate additional payments will be made to all buyers during any of the four-months.

Monkeys are caught by filling a coconut shell with chopped coconut meat. The monkeys grasp a fistful and, unwilling to let any go, cannot withdraw their paws. So, they are easy victims. The U.S. consumer is not yet as scrawny as shown, but unless there is a more equitable division of the productivity increases, he will get that way. One of the three American groups must let go and set an example—or all will be captured and, along with the consumer, all will suffer.

BOTH CUSTOMERS AND AMERICAN MOTORS GAIN

You have everything to gain and nothing to lose by joining this crusade. The same is true for us.

You can't lose because Ramblers are better than big cars and the best of the compacts. Ramblers are more trouble-free, more useful, lower priced.

You make your regular deal in the regular way for a new Rambler. You then may share proportionately in the economies and profits of higher Rambler volume in December, 1960, and the first three months of 1961.

We gain by acquiring more Rambler owners, which will make our growing market even larger in the future. That's because Rambler owners become Rambler salesmen and are the most loyal "repeat buyers" of any make.

Ask your neighbor all about his Rambler, then join the Rambler crusade. Join us in focusing the nation's attention on the essentiality of equitably sharing economic progress with ALL consumers if the WHOLE NATION is to prosper.

George Romney

P.S. Some may say one company can't do much about national problems as big and complex as those cited above. Well, that's what skeptics said about Rambler's first crusade. Let's remember, every great thing is born small. If this new Rambler crusade is right, it can succeed and spread, just as the compact car concept did.

OSU Continue In No. 1 Spot

By The Associated Press

College basketball's top 10 has 11 in the elite list today with the addition of unbeaten Auburn. Ohio State and Bradley still rule the roost.

How come 10 becomes 11 in The Associated Press' weekly ratings? The votes of the 36 sports writers and sportscasters in the national panel brought about a tie for 10th between North Carolina and North Carolina State.

The selectors picked the same 10 teams of a week ago, plus Auburn, although many of the teams were shifted. The poll was based on games played through Saturday night.

There were no changes in the first two spots. Ohio State's NCAA champions (4-0) were the unanimous choice of the 36 for first, and Bradley (6-0) was almost as solid for second.

Detroit (4-1), third a week ago, fell to eighth, and St. Bonaventure (6-0) moved up from sixth to third. Indiana (4-1) held firm in fourth place, but North Carolina (3-2), beaten by Kentucky and Kansas State, fell from fifth to a tie for 10th with NC State (5-1).

Louisville (8-0) jumped from ninth to fifth, and St. John's (4-0) advanced from seventh to sixth. Duke (5-0) also received a promotion from eighth to seventh. Auburn (5-0) earned the ninth spot by beating Alabama 74-62 for the Birmingham Classic.

The leaders with won-lost records and first place votes in parentheses with points on a 10-9-8 etc. basis (records through games of Saturday, Dec. 17) are:

1.	Ohio State (36) (4-0)	360
2.	Bradley (6-0)	321
3.	St. Bonaventure (6-0)	212
4.	Indiana (4-1)	204
5.	Louisville (8-0)	178
6.	St. John's (4-0)	140
7.	Duke (5-0)	135
8.	Detroit (4-1)	81
9.	Auburn 5-0	68
10.	North Carolina (3-2)	39
(Tie)	N. C. State (5-1)	39

Others receiving votes included Kansas State 35, Frovidence 24, UCLA 18, Colorado 17, St. Louis 15, Vanderbilt 14, Utah 13, Wake Forest 11, Kansas and Drake 10 each, Memphis State 7, Kentucky 6, Purdue 4, Duquesne 3, Utah State 2, Marquette, Virginia Tech, Illinois, Iowa and Seton Hall, 1 each.

ANNOUNCING PAYMENTS TO RAMBLER BUYERS AS RAMBLER'S SALES VOLUME INCREASES

Why You Should Join Rambler's New Crusade For Adequate Progress Sharing With Customers

P.S. Some may say one company can't do much about national problems as big and complex as those cited above. Well, that's what skeptics said about Rambler's first crusade. Let's remember, every great thing is born small. If this new Rambler crusade is right, it can succeed and spread, just as the compact car concept did.

Algeria, Arms Plans Beaten

Long Debate Slows Action In U.N. On Congo Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. General Assembly sought to close shop today after defeating a call for a U. N. referendum in Algeria and shelving rival East-West disarmament proposals. The assembly still had to vote on the Congo crisis before recessing until March 7.

Assembly attempts to reach a Congo vote Monday night bogged down when India's V. K. Krishna Menon talked until 1:45 a. m., delivering a two-hour review of the whole issue. Weary delegates decided to hold up balloting until the morning session.

Highlight of the debate Monday night was a warning from Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold that he might seek power to withdraw the U. N. force if civil war erupts in the chaotic young African nation.

If such a conflict developed while U. N. troops were still in the Congo, he said, the international force could not take sides or remain passive.

Awaiting assembly action were two rival Congo resolutions.

One sponsored by the United States and Britain calls on Hammarskjold to help Congo President Joseph Kasavubu create conditions permitting the Congo Parliament to reconvene. The resolution also expresses full faith in the efforts of Hammarskjold and the U. N. force to achieve peace and unity in the Congo.

The other resolution, introduced by India, Yugoslavia and six other supporters of ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba, calls for immediate reconvening of the Congo Parliament and the speedy release of Lumumba, now a prisoner of the Congolese army. The eight sponsors of the resolution believe the Parliament would return Lumumba to power.

Earlier Monday night, the assembly voted down an Asian-African proposal for a U. N.-supervised referendum to decide the future of French-ruled Algeria. This was a defeat for supporters of Algerian rebels seeking a U. N. voice in the referendum President Charles de Gaulle has promised for the North African territory.

The United States voted against the referendum proposal and abstained from the vote on the rest of the resolution. A U. S. spokesman explained that "our voting was guided by our view that no action here should prove an obstacle to Gen. de Gaulle's carrying out his task."

Joining in the rush to recess, the 99-nation Political Committee sidetracked action on Soviet and Western programs for general disarmament until the second half of the session.

Man, Woman, Boy Are Convicted In Dope Conspiracy

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Common Pleas Court jury Monday convicted a man, a woman and an 18-year-old youth in what court attaches said was the first narcotic conspiracy trial in Ohio.

Judge Roy F. McMahon deferred sentencing Yancy Wilson, 44, Audrey Walker, 27, and Sherman Cooper pending filing of a motion for a new trial by their lawyers.

The three face a sentence of 10 to 20 years in prison—the term for a first conviction of conspiring to violate the state narcotic laws.

Members of the police narcotic unit said Wilson, with help from Miss Walker and Cooper, conducted a heavy narcotics trade in the city.

Testimony at the three - week trial brought out that addicts wanting narcotics would take stolen articles, such as new tires and wheels and bags of golf clubs, to Wilson in return for heroin.

Cuba Official Leaves Soviet With Pledges

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—Ernesto Guevara, Cuba's ultraleft economic boss, left Moscow today, his pockets lined with Soviet promises of greatly increased economic aid and trade.

Western diplomats said the promises to Guevara represent the deepest Soviet penetration to date in Latin America. In return he signed a declaration of complete support for the Communist bloc in its economic and political war with the United States and its allies.

A final communique said the Russians will build an oil refinery in Cuba, construct an iron and steel mill and power plants. Technicians will go to Cuba to aid in exploration for iron and minerals.

The Soviet Union also announced it will buy 2.7 million tons of Cuban sugar if the United States continues its refusal to buy from Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime. The price to be paid was not announced.

(In Havana Castro announced the Communist bloc had pledged to buy four million tons of sugar in 1961 at 4 cents a pound—nearly a cent above the world price—if the United States refused to buy Cuban sugar. Previous Communist sugar purchases have been at the world price. Castro said the Soviet Union would take 2.7 million tons, Communist China 1 million, and other Communist nations the remaining 300,000 tons.

2 Ethiopian Brothers, Rebels Leaders, Sought

The hunt was on for Brigadier Mengestu Naway and his younger brother, Girmay. They reportedly fled to the nearby Emboko Mountains.

Baptism Of Fire Before Duty

Scars Of Violence Remain On Mighty U.S. Carrier

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—The smoke faded. The hissing steam was stilled. But the scars of violence remained on the mighty aircraft carrier Constellation, a warship that had its baptism of fire before it ever saw duty.

Through the night and into the early morning today a valiant and tireless brigade of firemen and rescue workers swarmed over the ship probing through the dark smoky passages, skimming the last flashes of fire and searching for casualties.

Tall ladders, moving hoists and a maze of ropes and hoses formed a weird pattern against the dark looming bulk of the huge vessel.

In the glare of the shifting floodlights, the men were like urgent Lilliputians swarming over a prostrate husk of a giant.

"Stretcher-bearers over here, please," barked a loudspeaker, and the ship yielded up another of its mournful cargo.

The carrier had cradled death and had known destruction while it still lay majestic at the berth where it was built. The Constellation was a battle-marked veteran six months before it entered the line.

Her officers wore the strained but dogged look of men after battle. But the Navy, true to tradition, mustered its "carry on" grit.

"I would like to emphasize that this ship will recover from her damage and will go to sea," said Adm. Schuyler N. Pyne, in charge of the Brooklyn Shipyard where the vessel, 90 per cent complete when the fire came, was moored.

Through the night the fight for the ship—and the civilian construction men who were aboard when the fire struck—was a stark tableau.

"Oxygen, on the double," snapped a loudspeaker, part of a continuous din of emergency calls.

Dismissal Asked In Conviction Of Teamster Figure

CLEVELAND (AP) — An attorney for William Presser, Ohio Teamsters leader, has asked federal district court here to dismiss the conviction of Presser last June and his eight-month sentence for destroying and concealing union records a U.S. Senate committee wanted.

Press is free on bond pending appeal from the federal prison term imposed on him after a jury found him guilty of mutilating an invoice for eight $100 champagne buckets bought in 1955. The buckets were purchased as Christmas presents to eight public officials from Teamsters Joint Council 41, of which Presser is president.

An attorney for Presser filed the motion for dismissal along with another motion asking the court to remove from the trial record two supplements the government added after the defense had filed its appeal brief.

U.S. Resumes Full Assistance To Laos

Asst. U. S. Atty. Robert Rust said Monday that Pavilack is violently anti-Catholic and favored turning himself into a human bomb at the Palm Beach Catholic Church while Kennedy was attending Mass.

Blue Cross Studies Plan To Control Hospital Costs

CLEVELAND (AP)—A plan to help control hospital costs is being worked out by Blue Cross of Northeast Ohio.

The plan, announced Monday by John R. Mannix, executive vice president of BCNO, involves combining the Joint Hospital Committee and the Citizens' Hospital Study Committee and extending their work in the interest of economy in the 12 counties where the Blue Cross organization covers about 59 per cent of the population.

Mannix discussed such a plan with Edward A. Stowell, Ohio superintendent of insurance. It was recommended by Stowell in his recent announcement that his department had granted Blue Cross of Northeast Ohio a rate increase of 19.75 per cent. The increase was 2.65 per cent less than requested.

Harry Affelder heads the Joint Hospital Committee which has a membership of 30 persons appointed by the Cleveland Welfare Federation, Cleveland Hospital Council and the mayor of Cleveland. The committee approves the number and location of new hospital beds provided for Cuyahoga County.

Through control of the number of beds added the committee exerts a greater force in the management of hospital costs than is possible by any other single means.

The Citizens' Hospital Study Committee, headed by William L. West, is a fact-finding committee whose reports provide a basis for conclusions on where costs may be cut. It has 21 members representative of labor, management, doctors, hospitals, the public and Blue Cross.

Members of both committees serve without pay.

Mannix said he believed the efforts of the two groups working together would be "invaluable in keeping Blue Cross costs and rates at a minimum and extending the time that the plan can continue under the new rate."

Blessed Art Thou, Mary

Joseph, Carpenter Of Nazareth, Passes Tests And Takes A Bride

The Gospels are wanting in their narrative of the love story of Mary and Joseph which reached its climax on that first Christmas nearly 2,000 years ago. Here, drawn from respected but non-canonical sources, is an account of their wedding.

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

"Thou art goodly in all ways, Mary, as all know."

He had borne enough. The rabbi had examined him. The elders had taken counsel. He had been interrogated by the whole congregation of Nazareth. Even priests of the Holy City had come to inquire into his reputation.

Joseph's patience waned. Verily, they had tested him without quarter. He took a last driving swing with his mallet, the chisel biting deep into the seasoned carob timber. The questioning near made him doubt himself.

Yet, manifestly, all of it had been necessary if he was to receive the most excellent and genteel maiden, Mary bath Joachim.

With his foot, he shoved the chips and splinters into a heap in the corner, leaving the unfinished wagon axle on his workbench. Sweat drenched his beard. The biceps of his arms stood out in great knots as he hung his implements.

IT WAS LATE afternoon, about the tenth hour, and he knew full well he should be preparing for the betrothal rites at the rich house of Anna and Joachim, but he needed this final exertion to quiet his agitation.

He shook his head in chagrin. Yaal, foolishness! At his mature age, he should not have been so unsettled by the matter. Yet each time his thoughts turned to the maid, his strength fled from him.

Likewise, the inquiries had tried him sorely. He had submitted humbly to them. He was not a vain man. But their precautions left him worn and ill at ease. It was if he were a stranger in their midst.

Had he not dwelt and toiled among them these many years? Had he not walked in integrity? He had brought forth young sons and, since he was widowed two years past, he had lived circumspectly and in accord with the law.

Yet it was meet that the girl's mother, Anna, and her kinsmen, having the high rank in the priesthood, should take great care in choosing a fit mate for an only daughter, a cherished yachid.

Joseph brushed the sawdust and parings from his tunic, and strode into the house. The little ones were at the synagogue, being instructed by the chazzan, and thereafter would repair to the reception of espousal.

HE POURED water into a basin on the clay floor, stripped off his loin cloth and bathed. Then, freshening the water, he dipped his head, scrubbing and spluttering. He toweled himself briskly and rubbed fragrant oil into his hair and beard.

Digging into his garment box, he shook out his white linen mantle and wrapped it on, buckling a leather girdle at his waist. He put on his Sabbath sandals, then fetched the gifts for Mary and her family from the shelf.

He tucked them into a pouch at his waist and set out.

He would have been easier if this had been a simple matchmaking, negotiated by the shadchanin, who served regularly as got-between in arranging the terms between parents of young couples.

In Mary's case, however, great concern and attention had been lavished on finding her a rightful husband. Anna had called to her aid a learned and distinguished kinsman, the chief priest Zechariah, who also had been tutor to Mary.

A multitude of eager suitors had been considered, both widowers and young swains, wealthy and poor. Zechariah, after much prayer and consultation, had named Joseph, the plain, hard - working joiner of Nazareth.

It had amazed him, and Joseph's heart had leaped. But so prolonged and scrupulous had the testimonies and proving become that at one time he had declaimed his own fitness.

"I am an older man and have children,," he had accused himself, "but she is young."

Zechariah had shrugged off the outburst, saying the determination was under divine guidance.

"Unto thee, Joseph, hath it fallen," he remonstrated.

JOSEPH'S qualms arose not from any want of affection for Mary, but only from his own lowliness. He had scant possessions and only a meager abode compared to the stately house of Joachim. And the maid herself was the glory of the village.

He walked slowly up the hill, taking a path through the vineyard. She was, indeed, well-endowed, in body and comport, and his devotion burned in him. Of all her days here and in her training at the Temple, it was said::

"None ever saw her angry or heard her reviling. For her speech was full of grace. . .She was ever diligent in prayer and in searching the law, and was anxious not to sin by any word against her companions.

"Moreover, she feared to make any mistake in laughter or by the sound of her lovely voice, lest any insult or pride should show itself against her equals. She blessed the Lord without intermission."

Joseph approached the house. A new moon shone over the roof. The light of the moon, at mid-month, was the favored time for bethrothals. From inside came merry sounds of voices.

His blood pounded as he touched the mezuzah at the doorpost, kissing his fingers, and knocked. A maid-servant brought a waterbasin for his hands and feet.

Leaving his sandals at the door, he walked barefoot across the room. It swarmed with neighbors and children, eating and conversing animatedly.

"Blessed by your coming, Joseph bar Jacob."

The salutations surged around him.

"God cheer your heart, Joseph."

"May your tribe increase."

"Does it go well with thee, Joseph bar Jacob?"

"It goes well."

Anna kissed his cheek and hand, and led him toward his place. When he saw the bride, his knees turned to water, and the distance across the floor stretched out formidably.

He salaamed, spreading his arms, his cheeks red as fire, and mumbled his awkward praises.

"Thou are goodly in all ways, Mary, as all know."

HIS EYES downcast and fumbling with his purse-strings, he drew out his small gifts and presented them unceremoniously, a silken sash with the colors of her tribe to Anna, a fringed prayer shawl to the old priest, Zechariah, a cruet of spices to his wife, Elizabeth, a bronze pendant to Mary.

Amid their utterances of gratitude and the murmuring of the throng, he took his seat beside the bride, with her family on either side. The servants passed more sweetmeats to the young, and the guests moved by to make flowery speeches of commendation.

At length came the time for all but the chosen witnesses and family to depart. Those remaining repaired to a low table in an adjoining chamber where the record chest, containing the ancestral register, sacred scrolls, histories and other family treasures, was opened.

Two suspended lamps glowed above the table. The old priest's beard, glistening with oil, bobbed as he read the lists of births, tracing the Davidic lineage of Mary, and also the ancestry of Joseph, son of Jacob, of the house of David, of Bethlehem.

Their names were then inscribed together on the Galilean stick, or scroll.

Terms of the mohar already had been agreed upon — it was to be the smallest dowry deemed honorable, 100 dinarii to be paid to Mary's parents within a year to insure her future against divorce or abandonment.

The priest unrolled the parchment contract on the table, and turned to Mary.

"Wilt thou go with this man?"

"I will go."

Joseph and the parents took the quill and put their names to the legal instrument of betrothal, the kethubah. Two witnesses stamped and sealed it. This was the binding covenant of marriage, with the ensuing wedding its public celebration.

Foreasmuch as she was virgin, and not a widow, it would be a full year before the marriage should be fulfilled, even though thence forth it would not be unlawful for him to know her. She now was under his authority.

"Be thou the mother of thousands of millions," the old priest told Mary. "Let they seed possess the gate."

The company prostrated themselves, facing toward the Temple, and the old priest blessed the Lord God of Abraham, and this union of his children, Mary bath Joachim and Joseph bar Jacob.

It's Official! Kennedy Has Been Elected

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's official now. John F. Kennedy has been elected president.

The voting on Nov. 8 helped determine the outcome, but Kennedy was not elected then according to the Constitution. That was done Monday by the 537 members of the Electoral College.

These largely unknown men, who don't even appear on the ballot in many states, met in state capitals from Maine to Hawaii. As expected they generally cast their state's electoral votes for the man who had won a plurality of the vote in the state.

After the electors completed their ancient ritual, Kennedy had 300 electoral votes and Vice President Richard M. Nixon 219. Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., got 15. Needed to win: 269.

Hawaii's three votes were still up in the air because a partial recount there has switched the state back to the Kennedy column by 83 votes. A full recount has been ordered in the island state.

Both the Republican and Democratic electors in Hawaii cast their three votes, hoping it can be decided by Jan. 6 which candidate had won the state. That is the date when Congress in joint session will officially count the electoral votes.

Since the Hawaiiian votes can't affect the result, it is possible Congress will simply disregard them.

Electors are considered to be under a moral obligation to vote for the candidate who wins their state—but no law says he must do so.

In fact one jumped the traces. Though Nixon carried Oklahoma, elector Henry D. Irwin of Bartlesville insisted on voting for Byrd for president and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., for vice president.

And Byrd collected 14 more votes from electors in Mississippi and Alabama who ran as unpledged to any candidate. These 14 voted for Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S. C., for vice president.

The southerners had tried to persuade other electors to go along with their revolt against the major parties, but got no takers except Irwin.

White, Republic Steel Chairman, To Retire

CLEVELAND (AP) — Charles M. White announced his retirement Monday as board chairman of Republic Steel Corp., a position he has held since 1956. White, 69, has been with the nation's third largest steel producer 30 years and served as president of the firm from 1945 until he became board chairman. He will give consulting and advising service to the company.

Directors at a meeting Monday abolished the position of board chairman and assigned White's duties as chief executive officer of the company to Thomas F. Patton, who will continue as president. Patton, 57, succeeded White as president.

Policewomen Taking Part In Club Visits

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbus policewomen are accompanying state liquor control agents on some visits to alleged illegal night club operations, Police Chief George W. Scholer says. Scholer said the assignment is voluntary, and that the women serve without pay in such cases, but do receive compensating time off. He said they are thus considered to be on city time and are covered in case anything happens.

Enforcement Chief Ivan Smith of the State Liquor Control Department termed it "sort of unofficial help." He said the idea is to have a witness to whatever occurs and also to allay suspicion about the agent.

Adds 3½% Pay Hike

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati school board has added a general pay increase of 3½ per cent for most civil service employes, effective Jan. 1, raising their pay schedule for two weeks' work to a range of $117.31 to $346.02. The board action Monday followed a general pay increase for teachers, made last week.

British General Dies

LONDON (AP)—Gen. Lord Jeffreys, 82, who spent a lifetime of service in the British army and became known as the army's Mr. England, died Monday.

Needle Pattern

By LAURA WHEELER

This baby set has everything—It's lovely, practical and, best of all, it's so easy to crochet.

Jacket and cap are crocheted in a straight piece. Boy's has plain bands at neck, sleeve, cap edge; girl's has ruffles. Pattern 770; crochet directions.

Send 35 cents in coin for this pattern to the East Liverpool Review, 45 Needlecraft Dept., P. O. Box 161, Old Chelsea Station, New York 11, N. Y. Print plainly your name, address and the pattern number.

Educators Name 4 New Officers

Election of officers featured the three-day convention of the Ohio Education Association last week in Columbus, which was attended by about 900.

They include: Robert P. Murphy of Cambridge, president; Merrill F. Cooley of Warren, vice president, and T. G. O'Keefe of Columbus, executive secretary. They will assume their duties in January.

Attending from East Liverpool were Supt. Paul Blair, new president of the East Central Ohio Teachers Association; Milton Watson, president of the OEA, and Michael Misconish, treasurer of the OEA.

The Representative Assembly approved two transfers — the East Palestine Association from the North Eastern Ohio Teachers Association to the East Central Association and the Marietta Association from the EOTA to the SEOTA.

The 1961 convention is set Nov. 30-Dec. 2 at Columbus.

To Modernize Rules

CINCINNATI (AP) — A three-man committee headed by Harry Abrams, former U.S. attorney, faces the job of modernizing bankruptcy rules in U.S. District Court. Judge John Druffel appointed the group Monday. Abrams noted that economic conditions and a great increase in bankruptcy petitions produced need for improvement.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine who considers herself well-dressed spends a fortune on clothes.

The other day she showed up at a dinner party in a complete set of fish jewelry. She wore a necklace of gold with a big fish in the front. I think it was a walleye. The fish had emerald eyes and sapphire gills. The matching earrings were also fish — hanging head down. She wore a fish bracelet — more walleye. When I looked across the table at her I lost my appetite.

I asked my husband what he thought about the jewelry and he said, "It's hideous."

What do you think? — GERALDINE.

Dear Geraldine: It's a matter of personal opinion. If you want mine, here it is: I don't care for life-like reproductions of animals, reptiles, fish or fowl as fashion accents.

I can't imagine anything more unappetizing than fish hanging from a woman's ear lobes.

Troublesome Trio

Dear Ann: I am the mother of three children. If I don't get some help I'll have a nervous breakdown.

My children are normal, healthy and full of pep. I wouldn't want them any other way. They love one another very much but I'm afraid one of these days they'll kill each other.

The 11-year-old boy always is pounding on his 10-year-old brother. The girl, 13, throws things at the boys and slams doors on them. The tattling, arguing and name-calling goes on 24 hours a day. My husband says to leave them alone — that this is normal behavior.

I had no brothers or sisters so I don't know if this is the way all kids grow up. Our neighbors' kids don't seem to act this way and there are seven of them over there. Please set me straight before I lose my mind.—MOM.

Dear Mom: Show me a family of brothers and sisters who never quarrel and I'll show you a bunch of vegetables. It's normal for kids to be high spirited and noisy, but what goes on in YOUR house reaches beyond this.

The competition between your children has got out of hand. You must not permit yourself to be dragged into their petty squabbles. Play no favorites, refuse to reward tale bearing and don't act as a referee.

You won't suffer from battle fatigue at the end of each day if you call the signals and refuse to let the kids run you ragged.

The Woman Pays

Dear Ann: When a well-to-do man takes out a divorced woman (who works for a living), who pays the baby sitter?

This is always an embarrassing situation for me because my friend insists on paying the sitter and I am not sure he should.

He claims it's part of the expense of going out and since he can afford it much better than I, there should be no argument. Will you comment? — EVE.

Dear Eve: The baby sitter is engaged by you and it is your responsibility to pay her. The gentleman is generous to want to relieve you of this expense but don't permit it.

Confidentially

CAN'T STAND THEM: They probably can't stand you either. Why don't you be good to yourselves and find other friends?

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Daughter's Note Gets Father Home For Christmas

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Haasan Zeghabe, an admitted bank robber awaiting sentencing, is home for Christmas—thanks to a letter from his daughter, 11, to a kindly federal judge.

"Is it okay if my daddy can come home for Christmas Eve and Christmas Day?" Nadya Zeghabe asked Judge Thurmond Clarke in her letter.

"We haven't never been separated on Christmas, and daddy is not really a bad guy. He just did it because everybody had been mean to him.

"Yasmeen, our baby, really misses him. She always goes around saying daddy, daddy, daddy, all the time. I promise I will do anything you want if you'll just let him come home. That would be all I would want for Christmas."

Judge Clarke temporarily set aside $20,000 bail and let Zeghabe go home Monday but cautioned him to return to jail next Wednesday.

Zeghabe, 35, a tool and die maker, told investigators he robbed the bank of $400 because he needed money to buy tools for his trade.

Steamed rice and chutney are a "must" with any curried dish. Peanuts (salted or plain) are also a flavorful addition; put them through the fine blade of the food chopper so they may be sprinkled over the curry.

It's Official! Kennedy Has Been Elected

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's official now. John F. Kennedy has been elected president.

The voting on Nov. 8 helped determine the outcome, but Kennedy was not elected then according to the Constitution. That was done Monday by the 537 members of the Electoral College.

These largely unknown men, who don't even appear on the ballot in many states, met in state capitals from Maine to Hawaii. As expected they generally cast their state's electoral votes for the man who had won a plurality of the vote in the state.

After the electors completed their ancient ritual, Kennedy had 300 electoral votes and Vice President Richard M. Nixon 219. Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., got 15. Needed to win: 269.

Hawaii's three votes were still up in the air because a partial recount there has switched the state back to the Kennedy column by 83 votes. A full recount has been ordered in the island state.

Both the Republican and Democratic electors in Hawaii cast their three votes, hoping it can be decided by Jan. 6 which candidate had won the state. That is the date when Congress in joint session will officially count the electoral votes.

Since the Hawaiiian votes can't affect the result, it is possible Congress will simply disregard them.

Electors are considered to be under a moral obligation to vote for the candidate who wins their state—but no law says he must do so.

In fact one jumped the traces. Though Nixon carried Oklahoma, elector Henry D. Irwin of Bartlesville insisted on voting for Byrd for president and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., for vice president.

And Byrd collected 14 more votes from electors in Mississippi and Alabama who ran as unpledged to any candidate. These 14 voted for Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S. C., for vice president.

The southerners had tried to persuade other electors to go along with their revolt against the major parties, but got no takers except Irwin.

White, Republic Steel Chairman, To Retire

CLEVELAND (AP) — Charles M. White announced his retirement Monday as board chairman of Republic Steel Corp., a position he has held since 1956. White, 69, has been with the nation's third largest steel producer 30 years and served as president of the firm from 1945 until he became board chairman. He will give consulting and advising service to the company.

Directors at a meeting Monday abolished the position of board chairman and assigned White's duties as chief executive officer of the company to Thomas F. Patton, who will continue as president. Patton, 57, succeeded White as president.

Policewomen Taking Part In Club Visits

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbus policewomen are accompanying state liquor control agents on some visits to alleged illegal night club operations, Police Chief George W. Scholer says. Scholer said the assignment is voluntary, and that the women serve without pay in such cases, but do receive compensating time off. He said they are thus considered to be on city time and are covered in case anything happens.

Enforcement Chief Ivan Smith of the State Liquor Control Department termed it "sort of unofficial help." He said the idea is to have a witness to whatever occurs and also to allay suspicion about the agent.

Adds 3½% Pay Hike

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati school board has added a general pay increase of 3½ per cent for most civil service employes, effective Jan. 1, raising their pay schedule for two weeks' work to a range of $117.31 to $346.02. The board action Monday followed a general pay increase for teachers, made last week.

Educators Name 4 New Officers

Election of officers featured the three-day convention of the Ohio Education Association last week in Columbus, which was attended by about 900.

They include: Robert P. Murphy of Cambridge, president; Merrill F. Cooley of Warren, vice president, and T. G. O'Keefe of Columbus, executive secretary. They will assume their duties in January.

Attending from East Liverpool were Supt. Paul Blair, new president of the East Central Ohio Teachers Association; Milton Watson, president of the OEA, and Michael Misconish, treasurer of the OEA.

The Representative Assembly approved two transfers — the East Palestine Association from the North Eastern Ohio Teachers Association to the East Central Association and the Marietta Association from the EOTA to the SEOTA.

The 1961 convention is set Nov. 30-Dec. 2 at Columbus.
